BLAINE WANTS SEVERSON PUT UNDER PROBE

Administration Accepts Challenge for Investigation of Graft at Madison

PERMIT OUTDOOR BOXING

Bill to Increase Highway Commission from Five to Seven Members Is Lost

By Associated Press
Madison—The state administration has taken up the challenge made Tuesday in a resolution offered by Senator H. J. Severson to investigate possible graft in state departments, boards and commissions by introducing a counter resolution as a substitute which provides for calling Severson to account and to furnish proof concerning graft in the state department.

The substitute resolution introduced by Senator A. E. Garey, administration floor leader, would require Severson to submit testimony under oath before a special senatorial committee consisting of Senators Quick, Chase, England, White and Lunge. The original resolution and the substitute was to be up for consideration in the senate Wednesday.

The committee of the senate is somewhat divided toward the side of the administration. Chase and England lean toward administration. White and Lunge are conservatives opposed to the administration's policies.

IS CHALLENGE

Senator Garey allowed it to become known Tuesday night that the resolution he offered was a clear cut administration challenge for its opponents to make good on allegations of graft and other misconduct in state offices. The proposals contained in the Severson resolution are not specific and are principally based on reports and rumors of official misconduct coming to the senator's attention.

The administration bill to increase the state highway commission from five to seven members met defeat in its first stage in the assembly Wednesday. It was indefinitely postponed, 56 to 31.

The state senate Tuesday night passed a bill permitting the holding of outdoor boxing bouts, provided, proper permit is obtained from the state athletic commission. The bill allows such exhibitions to be held in stadiums and amphitheatres. It now goes to the assembly for concurrence. Milwaukee senators opposed the measure.

HOME RULE STILL UNDER TEST, BLAINE DECLARES

By Associated Press
Madison—Time and experience will demonstrate whether cities and villages will find the home rule amendment to the constitution desirable. Governor John J. Blaine Wednesday told the League of Wisconsin Municipalities at its annual convention here.

"Self-governing communities develop on their people far beyond a paternal, centralized government," the governor said in discussing the effect of the amendment.

"The home rule amendment empowers cities and villages to determine their local affairs and government, subject only to the constitution and to such enactment of the legislature of statewide concern as shall with uniformity affect every city or village," he said.

By Associated Press

John and Clarence Anton with Robert L. Fischer, former officers of the Badger Drug company of Plymouth are the defendants in the action which charges that they violated the prohibition law in the sale of liquor and instigated an alleged robbery of liquor supplies to cover their shortages. All defendants deny the charges.

Predicts Success Of World Court Protocol In Congress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—Senator King of Utah, Democrat, had a talk with President Coolidge about the world court and other matters Tuesday and then delivered himself of a number of ideas on pending questions.

Mr. King says for example that the world court protocol will be ratified by the next congress, that President Coolidge is sincerely and earnestly for it but that "Republicans like Senators Borah of Idaho and Pepper of Pennsylvania will torpedo it if they can."

The Utah senator says the Democrats will be almost unanimous for the court and that enough Republican votes will be available to make the necessary two-thirds.

Mr. King is staying here because of his membership on the Couzens committee investigating tax matters. He was asked by some of the correspondents at the White House whether he thought congress would take any action about the collection of foreign debts to make it possible to get a larger tax reduction.

"As a Democrat I would lean backward," he said, "in supporting a Republican chief executive in any policy he may develop for the collection of the war debts, but I think that even if we didn't collect a dollar of the war debt, we could still reduce taxes by $750,000,000. If we get any money from war debts I would favor applying it to a reduction of our own public debt."

"It is possible to reduce by $750,000,000 our tax bill if we exercise rigidity. I believe we could have economized still more in the last congress than we did. It may not be generally realized but congress did not in the last session spend all the money the budget prepared by the president called for. Next time we can make a greater cut."

While I personally believe the Democrats should argue for even more economy than the administration, it is difficult to predict just what cut in expenditures will be advocated by my colleagues, but I would not be surprised if the Democrats favored a $300,000,000 reduction."

The Utah senator thinks the maximum surtax rate ought not to be more than 20 per cent and should be between 15 and 20. He isn't prepared to say what the Democrats will agree on but he is inclined to believe all parties will agree on a surtax of around 25 per cent, if not less.

Senator King is very optimistic about the political outlook. He thinks the Democrats will almost surely win the 1926 elections, so far as the house of representatives is concerned. As for the senate, he is not so sure but says that "with the progressive Republicans the Democrats will be in control of the senate too."

OVER 50 MINERS ARE TRAPPED IN N. C. MINE BLAST

Rescue Workers Equipped With Gas Masks Unable to Penetrate Very Far

By Associated Press
Raleigh, N. C.—More than 50 men are entombed in the mine of the Carolina coal company, eight miles from Sanford, N. C. as the result of an explosion there Wednesday, an official of the company stated over long distance to the Associated Press here shortly after 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The fate of the men added, was undetermined and grave fears were felt for their safety. A majority of the men are said to be white.

A gas explosion was given as the cause of the wrecking of the mine. The explosion occurred when the full crew of the mine was duty. Dense clouds of yellow smoke and dangerous fumes emanating from the mouth of the mine prevented early attempts at rescue work.

A later report from the mine officials stated that two men had gone into the mine equipped with gas masks but had been unable to penetrate very far.

At 1:30 o'clock the number of those estimated as entombed was 50 to 60 and it was stated none had come out of the mine since the explosion occurred.

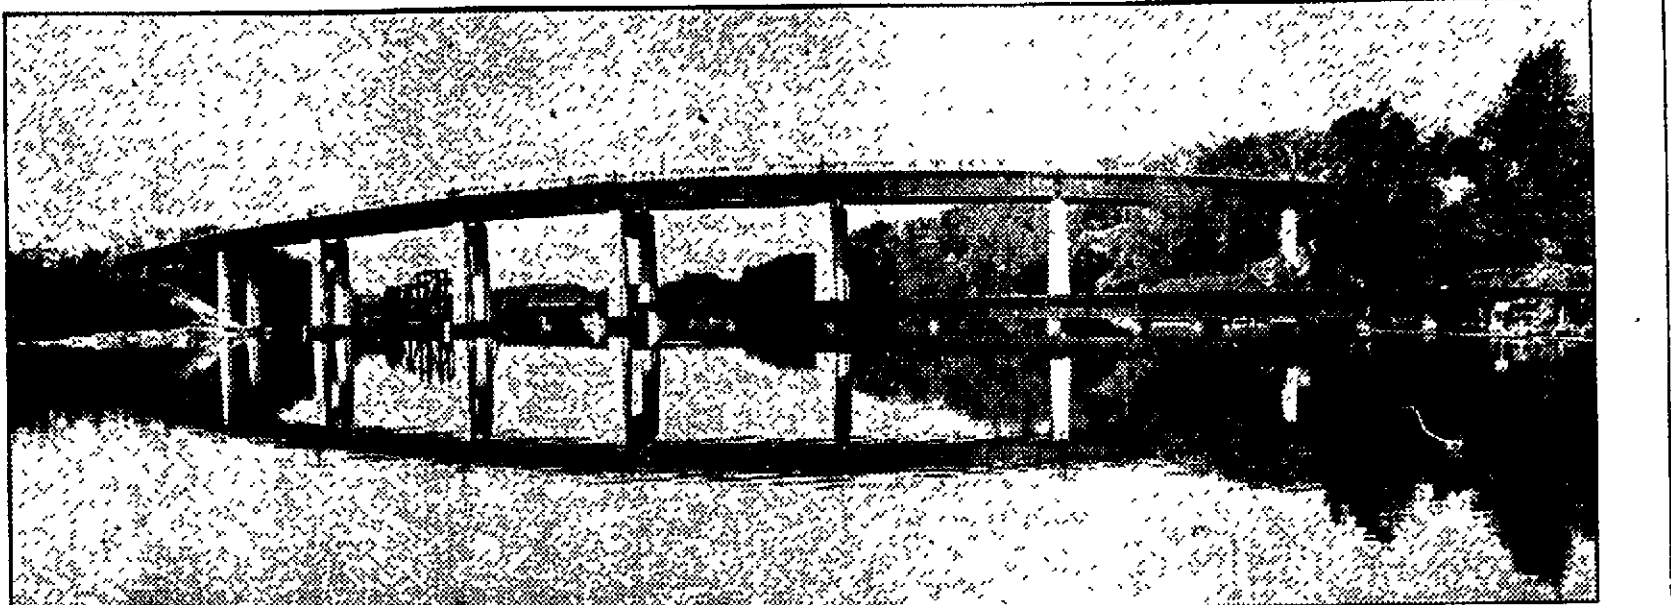

WETS ASSAIL MONEY WASTE OF DRY ARMADA'S BLOCKADE

By Associated Press
Halifax—Two steamships and eleven schooners, members of the liquor fleet which put into Canadian waters after establishment of the United States guard blockade, have departed from Halifax and Lunenburg and Wednesday are sailing for St. Pierre and southern ports, including Havana, Nassau, and Bermuda. Six other vessels of the fleet sailed last week.

Washington, D. C.—The rum blockade is described in a statement published Wednesday by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment as a "throwing away" of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money "to stop less than 1 per cent of the flow of liquor into the United States."

SEYMOUR WOMAN TESTIFIES IN IDENTITY CASE

Mrs. Louise Roth Denies Lopez-Frazier Is the Frazier of Her School Courtship

By Associated Press
Minneapolis—Arthur Lopez-Frazier's strange identification suit in which he seeks to prove that he is a World war veteran previously reported killed in action continues to increase in complexity as the final days of the trial draws near.

The government in its effort to disprove the "mystery man's" claim that he is Arthur Frazier, South Dakota Indian soldier Wednesday approached nearer the bottom of its long list of witnesses, who, as they take the stand, continue to repudiate Lopez-Frazier's story.

Taking the stand Tuesday, Mrs. Louise Roth of Seymour, Wis., who when she "kept company" with Arthur Frazier, was Louise Long, told the jury Lopez-Frazier was not the man who was her school day beau at the Indian school at Mandan, S. D., for three years, she testified, Arthur Frazier and she were companions.

Lopez-Frazier, in the meantime continues to remain away from the courtroom, carrying out his doctor's instructions. Mrs. Lianann Frazier, who together with her husband, accept the "mystery man" as their soldier son continues as an observer at the trial.

MAKE TWO MORE ARRESTS FOR BANK BOND ROBBERY

Minneapolis—James Connolly, St. Paul bank salesman, was held in the Minneapolis city jail without charges and Frank O'Regan, alias Blanka, was held on a charge of receiving $22,000 worth of stolen bonds Wednesday as the result of an attempted police coup in which six Minneapolis, St. Paul and Milwaukee detectives engaged Tuesday night.

The bonds which O'Regan is charged with having received here part of the lost in the $300,000 robbery of the Northwestern National bank, at Milwaukee, Dec. 8, 1924, John Davenport, Minneapolis, is awaiting trial in Milwaukee on a charge of complicity in the robbery. Detectives said today that $24,000 worth of the stolen bonds had been recovered in St. Paul.

200 JOIN IN SEARCH FOR AGED WOODSMAN

Antigo—In answer to a proclamation issued Tuesday night by Mayor T. J. Reinert, asking for volunteers to join in the search of Davis Edick, 2, men under the leadership of Attorney L. A. Whit, left in automobiles early Wednesday morning to comb the forests northeast of here, in which the aged woodsman is thought to have been lost since last Wednesday. With the party was the woodsman's dog, and the second time would attempt to pick up the missing man's trail. The dog was brought here Tuesday from Mauston.

Up to 10 o'clock Wednesday morning the searching party reported no results, and Mr. Whit said that because so many men had scoured the woods recently, it was very difficult for the canine to pick up Edick's tracks.

First U. S. Abbot Of Order Consecrated At W. Depere

By Associated Press
DePere—An ecclesiastical event—the first of its kind in the history of Wisconsin—took place in the St. Joseph's church at West DePere Wednesday, when at 10:15 a. m. the Rev. Bernard H. Pennings, president of St. Norbert college and prior of the Premonstratensian order, was consecrated the only abbot of that order in America, by Bishop Paul P. Rhode of the Green Bay diocese.

Among the 142 dignitaries of the church participating in the investiture were two abbots of the Benedictine order, who one on each side of the honored priest assisted him throughout the ceremony. They were Abbot Elcun Deutsch of St. John abbey, Collegeville, Minn., and Abbot V. Huber of Peru, Ill.

Promptly at 9:45 a procession formed at the monastery of the order which recently was raised to an abbey by a decree of the Holy Father. Leading the column was the vested chorus of St. Norbert college followed by clergy representing various of the dioceses, and attired in their official robes. While the procession moved down the walk to the cathedral, the chorus chanted and the college chimed sounded.

Once in the church, filled to capacity by people who were admitted by ticket only, attention centered around Bishop Rhode who, when visiting prelates and "White Fathers," as the members of the order are called, had their respective positions about the sanctuary, read the papal letter which elevated the college president from a prior to an abbot.

The bishop then celebrated high mass, after which Father Pennings took the oath and became duly consecrated abbot of the Premonstratensian order, or St. Norbert order as it is more commonly known.

Having received the insignia of his rank and having been clothed in special vestments of his new office, the college founder, heading a second procession that passed through the congregation, returned again to the altar, the prelates took their places and the newly consecrated abbot became seated on the beautiful abbot's throne, to receive the 52 "White Fathers" who passed and kissed the abbot's ring.

The mass sung during the service was a composition by the Rev. L. A. Dobbelsien, formerly of the college faculty. It was a mass in honor of Joan of Arc.

At completion of the ceremonies the Rev. Francis E. Kelly, bishop of Oklahoma, delivered an address eulogizing Father Pennings in his achievements as head of St. Norbert college, since the time the new abbot founded the institution in 1898, beginning with one pupil.

The bishop said in part:

"Everything that is Christian is made in the likeness of Christ, and as man is made in the image and likeness of God, every great office in the church is in some way a likeness of the church. The office of an abbot has a triple dignity—as teacher, father and ruler."

Following the sermon, the congregation was dismissed and the prelates assembled in St. Joseph's hall on the college campus for a banquet.

THAW COMPLAINS HE WAS BORED AT WILD BROADWAY JAMBOREE

New York—Someone is taking advantage of Harry K. Thaw's presence on Broadway to press agent himself, according to Bartholomew B. Coyne, Thaw's attorney.

Coyne denied Wednesday that Thaw showered tips recklessly in a cabaret Sunday as reported. The attorney said Thaw merely dropped into the place for a little recreation. He declared that while patrons of the cabaret may have had a hectic time, Thaw himself described it as dull.

Thaw came to New York to consult Coyne on local matters, the lawyer says. At his hotel Tuesday Thaw said he might remain here for "half an hour or three weeks."

FORECAST BREAK IN CHURCH OVER CHRIST'S BIRTH

Clash Between Ultra-Fundamentalists and Modernists Among Presbyterians

Columbus, O.—A definite break in the Presbyterian church in the United States is imminent, modernists in the denomination's general assembly in session here declared Wednesday. The split will come, Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, New York, representing the decidedly liberal presbytery there, said if the various Presbyterian uphold action of the assembly Tuesday in voting that a literal acceptance of the virgin birth is a necessary qualification of any one who enters its ministry.

While the modernists made clear their position in this regard, ultra-fundamentalists, through Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, former moderator and one of their leaders, asserted that the "law and authority of the church will be upheld" if the "New York presbytery continues to license ministers who do not accept in full all the creedal and doctrinal beliefs of the church."

A protest against the ruling of the judicial commission Tuesday in holding that the New York Presbytery went against the law of the church in licensing ministers to preach who could not affirm belief in the virgin birth, was formally presented to the assembly Wednesday by the Rev. Charles E. Swartz of Chicago.

Among the commissioners for signature and so far some 50 had appended their names.

It concerned entirely the licensing of Henry P. VanDusen, New York, who did not either affirm or deny acceptance of the theory of the virgin birth.

SIXTH DAY FINDS POLE FLIERS STILL ABSENT

New York—Today is the sixth since the Amundsen-Ellsworth polar flying expedition hoped off for the north, and the whereabouts and welfare of the six adventurers remain as much of a mystery as ever.

When their two planes disappeared from the view of those at King's Bay, Spitzbergen, all communication with them ceased, as Captain Amundsen went without wireless equipment so as to carry as much motor fuel as possible.

As to what has befallen the party since, there are several possibilities, but the truth can be for the present only a matter of conjecture. There is much discussion about polar expeditions but Amundsen's friends in Norway declare this talk is premature. The explorer, they say, went prepared for all contingencies; he is fully capable of taking care of himself and his party, and he may be relied upon to turn up, sooner or later, at some outpost of civilization.

REINDICT DOHENY, FALL. SINCLAIR IN OIL CASE

Washington—Albert R. Fall, Edward L. Doheny, and Harry F. Sinclair, whose indictments as a result of the oil scandal recently were dismissed on a technicality were reindicted Wednesday by a District of Columbia grand jury.

REPORT WHITE IS IN HIDING FROM POLICE

EXPECT EARLY ARREST

Apprehend Man Suspected of Shady Dealings With Shepherd Investigator

By Associated Press
New York—Robert White, missing witness in the William D. Shepherd murder trial in Chicago came to New York more than a week ago and has hidden himself from police who started a search for him at the request of Chicago authorities. It was learned Wednesday.

White, in obtaining from the American Express company his trunks which he had shipped from Chicago gave a fictitious address in New York City, detectives working on the case said. The police found that White had taken the trunks from the express company's depot in W. Fifty-Fifth, last Monday.

DEPEND ON WHITE

Chicago—While Robert White, fugitive witness on whose testimony the state largely rests its hope of convicting William D. Shepherd for the murder of William McWhorter, was being sought in New York Wednesday, the state's attorney's office proceeded with its inquiry into alleged jury fixing attempts. State Attorney General Croft traced White to New York Tuesday night and expected his arrest there Wednesday. Meanwhile the formal arrest of James J. Kelly here Tuesday night turned the prosecutor's office into a buzzing hive of activity, around which Mr. Croft threw a blanket of secrecy.

IMPLICATES WITNESS

Kelly was named in a letter purported to have been written by White in Philadelphia last week, which charged he had been forced to flee from Chicago. Kelly admitted having been with White and Arthur E. Byrne, investigator for Shepherd, the night before White left the city.

Mr. Croft's only announcement was that Kelly had made admissions that "implicated" White.

Tuesday's questioning of veniremen in the Shepherd case and of jurors and wives of jurors in cases argued by W. S. Stewart and W. V. O'Brien, Shepherd's counsel, brought no evidence of attempts to fix the jury or evidence that juries in the past cases had been "fixed." There were only three jurors and one venireman tentatively passed by both sides when court opened Wednesday morning.

LURID VAMPIRE LOSING OUT TO SWEET CHARMER

Movie World Finds Enchantress Is More Effective but Less Demoralizing

New York—Exit the vamp! Enter the enchantress! The styles are changing again. The exotic, sensuous siren still clinches precariously to her "rag and a bone and a hank of hair," but the call has been sounded for more subtle and distinctive beauty.

And some years of experimenting with the species vampire the admission is timidly being made that vampires are by no means infallible in enchantment.

A good enchantress, with surface charm and soft distinction, with angelic expression and large appealing eyes, is worth an entire ballroom of more lurid lurers.

The enchantress, like the Canadian mounted police, can always "bring back her man," while the vampire is more likely to leave him in the morgue or the penitentiary.

And so, just as Theda Bara appeared in the van of a long parade of vampires, there now comes Helen Lee Worthington to start the styles in enchantresses.

"You know wives would never be one-half as afraid of vampires as they would be of enchantresses," says Miss Worthington. "At best, a vamp brought out the worst in a man, but unless he went to the gutter or to jail he was very likely to see how ridiculous was his attachment."

"Furthermore if a hero is really going to be a hero he can't keep on falling for a very obvious assortment of make-up, with slinking frocks and blackened eyelashes. If he must be lured audiences prefer that he select a woman of some intelligence and charm—particularly if he has an attractive wife."

"A final advantage of the enchantress is that she can fall in love, or get married like anybody else. That isn't so easy for a vamp. In fact, it's almost impossible."

So, girls, if you want to be a model "dangerous child" lay off the vamping and take a course in enchanting.

WASH MINSTER WINDOWS AFTER MANY CENTURIES

By Associated Press
Hull, Eng.—There are windows in the York Minster of Hull which have not been washed in more than 600 years. It was announced by the Dean of York in making an appeal for a local fund for the preservation of these antique windows which are still in active service. There is no collection of English glass in the world approaching that at York Minster, said the dean, and if the public allowed these windows to disappear their like would never be seen again.

Some of the windows which have been in place for six centuries were being cleaned for the first time, the dean asserted, and it had been found that the belief that washing might destroy the mellowing effect of time on the glass was without foundation.

GREAT FUTURE STILL AHEAD OF THIS COMMUNITY

Dr. Holmes Makes Formal Presentation of Bridge to Soldiers and Sailors

This still is a pioneer state and the summit of its greatness still is a long way in the future. Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of First Methodist church, declared Tuesday night when he presented the bridge to L. Hugo Keller, commander of the state department of the American legion as a memorial to the state department of the American legion as a memorial to the soldiers and sailors of all wars.

"We hesitate to prophesy what the future of this community will be in view of all the natural resources that are displayed on every hand," Dr. Holmes said.

"I trust that this beautiful bridge may be emblematic of the faith of our God-fearing citizens that shall bridge over the shores of an untraveled future the chasms of injustice, social inequality, lawlessness and iniquity," Dr. Holmes told Mr. Keller in his formal presentation.

"Tonight, as we stand beside this beautiful structure which spans the sparkling river beneath it, our minds are busy with men and scenes of other days," Dr. Holmes said. "While this bridge is typical of the genius, courage and faith of this present generation, and we congratulate ourselves on our achievement, we must pause for a moment and contemplate all that has made this bridge possible. It has been said that the world very easily forgets its great men and historic events—that the rush of progress covers the heroic figures of past years and that they are rapidly relegated to oblivion. Like the borealis race which fits ere you can point its place; or like the snowfall on the river, a moment white, their work is over, or like the rainbow's lovely form, vanishing amid the storm, we often ask ourselves how long we would be remembered should we disappear tomorrow. What space in the public eye do the giant personalities of a few years ago occupy? It is a popular view to think that our physical span of life completes in a large measure our sphere of influence. We arrive, create momentary stirrs on the great surface of life—then drop out, and the tides of progress sweep ruthlessly over the place where we stood.

WORLD DOES NOT FORGET
"But, my friends, what we are doing tonight illustrates most forcibly that the world does not forget; that we would not if we would; that the background and end of conscious existence is not oblivion. The whole program of life seems to have two functions—to produce and to reproduce. Progress, as it unfolds, is much like a river, its former lessons to his class before he goes on to the new. We are rapidly discovering that not a single element of any man's thought or deed is lost or forgotten. Deeds work themselves like the beautiful threads of a tapestry into the instincts and dispositions of every succeeding generation. The world may forget our names, but—what are names? All nature is concerned in the preservation of our things we have done. Whether it be the perpetuity of a spotless character, the divinity of an immortal and imperishable truth, or the birth of a tremendous idea.

REALIZED HOPES
"Tonight we rejoice in realized hopes. The faith of a heroic Marquette and Hennepin, the dauntless courage of a Joliet, a Nicolet, a LaSalle, a Redisson and Greaseilliers, and the faith of that shadowy multitude of pioneers, finds fruition in the fulfillment of their prophecies for this fair valley of the Fox.

"Along this river with its factory-lined banks, humming tonight with myriad industries, they pushed their canoes around strange and wooded bends, dark with mystery and hiding within their coveys pestilence and lurking death from the arrows of relentless foes. They not only opened the way for the coming of the multitudes, but they carried aloft and planted on the shores of this beautiful river, at Petit Lac Butte, des Morts, the Cross of Jesus Christ, that symbol of love and peace toward men of good will. I can think of no better words than those of Rudyard Kipling:

"They blazed the way of future cities, traced the easy grades between them, watched unharmed rapids wasting fifty thousand head an hour; counted leagues of water-frontage through the axe-ripe woods that screen 'em—

Bow the plant to feed a people—up and waiting for the power."

"These men live tonight—they have an immortality of earth as well as heaven. Their presence is over and about us and their blessing is upon us.

"Hard upon the trail of these out-riders of civilization followed the grandfathers and great-grandfathers of many here tonight. They broke the prairies with their heavy ox-teams and chopped and burned out 'clearings' in the dense forest. Many of them were one hundred miles or more from even a primitive mill, and perhaps fifty miles from a postoffice or store. Either an Indian trail or a blazed path through the forest was their only connection with a base of supplies and yet they were happy, for they were making their contribution to the great current of life. Such men are peered by posterity; they are knights by nature.

PIERCE HIGHWAY
"This river that flows so quietly at our feet tonight was the chief highway traveled by these pioneers of muscle, pluck and brain. The first rail road opened in Wisconsin was laid out in 1823 along the east side of the Fox from Green Bay to Kaukauna; and was probably paid for by private subscription. Gradually the forests were felled, communities were formed, a college was founded, the natural resources of water-power were utilized, factories appeared. The primordial loveliness gave way to the march of civilization, and the dreams of the explorers were realized.

GAVE AND ACCEPTED BRIDGE

Appleton's new bridge at Cherry-stress was formally presented to the soldiers and sailors of Outagamie-co by Dr. J. A. Holmes, (left) pastor of First Methodist church, in an inspiring address at the bridge dedication Thursday night. The bridge was accepted in behalf of the soldiers and sailors by L. Hugo Keller (right), commander of the state department of the American legion.

"Tonight they live again and we recall the story of their epoch-making deeds. The civilization we enjoy is but their lengthened shadow. This great span of steel and concrete over which the hurrying traffic of years to come will pass, is the result of their faith which bridged the wilderness solitude of their period to the busy life of today. A few of their names have come down to us, but there was a tolling multitude whose names we do not know; but they were providential men and women, and providential men are priceless.

DEDICATE TO HEROES

"We dedicate this bridge this night to the soldiers and sailors of all wars—to Outagamie's sons who fought from Bull Run to Appomattox, from Manila to Santiago, from Iloilo to Cebu, in the words of Abraham Lincoln, as he stood in the pine-shaded silence of the little cemetery at Gettysburg: 'The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriotic grave to every heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as they surely will be, by the angels of our better natures.'

"Our heroes, the explorers, the pioneers, the warriors, are not dead. They reappear tonight in this beautiful city; in the broad acreages of our fertile valleys; in the red, white and blue of our flag; in the majesty of our commonwealth, and the strength of our nation. Most of all, and best of all, they are enshrined in the hearts of all true patriots, who, tonight, honor them by their presence. They have exchanged the canoe, the plover, and the rifle for the palm branch. They sit in the war councils of the great; their lives are poems of undying valor. Like Moses, we stand with unsundered feet and here again in this most fitting memorial—we consecrate ourselves to the cause for which they lived and died."

PIERCE STATE

"Peace and Plenty stand tonight as the guardian angels of our prosperity. The life of this beautiful valley has been vitalized by great events. Because of this history our life possesses the germinal elements of permanence. But this community is still in its lusty youth. We hesitate to prophesy what its future will be in view of all the natural resources that are displayed so prominently on every hand. The summit of its greatness and growth is undoubtedly a long way in the future. This is yet a pioneer state.

"Many of you have wandered amid crumbling arches and ivy-clad ruins of distant lands—wrapped in the mists of a storied past. They are said to be the spots where the most exquisite flowers of civilization have bloomed. But ruins are not civilization. Civilization means human sovereignty; the enthronement of wisdom, the purity of the ballot, the stability of the State, the supremacy of Federal authority, and the recognition of religious liberty. Such a civilization is ours. We believe it is nurtured by Providence; we believe it is rooted in Justice; we believe it has been watered by the sweat of brain and the blood of hearts of brave men and women whose deeds we most tenderly remember tonight.

SUPPORT FOR THE ARTILLERY BAND

The 121st Field Artillery band, Appleton's crack musical organization, is in need of greater financial support. This fact was forcibly brought to light at a meeting held Monday evening, at which time ways and means of obtaining this support were discussed. It was indicated that if the band is to be kept at its present high standard or still further improved that financial aid of a substantial character must be forthcoming.

It must be conceded that the Artillery Band is a great asset to the city of Appleton. It has an advertising value which cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Its ability to provide high class musical entertainment is evidenced by the splendid concerts it has given during the past few years. The band is capable of furnishing appropriate music for most any occasion. It has played an important part in dozens of Appleton's celebrations, conventions and other functions. It is composed of a high type of capable musicians, well trained and intelligently directed. Its entertainment ability, its prestige, its advertising value to the city all merit a liberal support.

Surely there are enough generous and public-spirited men and women in Appleton who will arise to the occasion and make the future of this splendid musical organization certain and secure. The city of Appleton should and will help liberally, our citizens should do the rest. We believe they will when a definite, practical method of assistance is presented to them. The band must not be lost to Appleton or its standard lowered by lack of financial support.

THAT LABOR BUREAU

One of the rather senseless sections of the treaty of Versailles was that which established the international labor bureau, just now conducting a conference of forty-three nations at Geneva.

What concern is it of the league's, or of England's or Belgium's what domestic treatment labor shall have in the United States? Yet the treaty provided that the members will "endeavor to secure and maintain fair and humane conditions of labor, for men, women and children," not only in their own countries but in "all countries to which their commercial and industrial relations extend." Hence the international meet, which has just chosen Premier Benes of Czecho-Slovakia its president.

The United States as well as most of the other nations concerned is burdened with sufficient centralization and bureaucratic prying into this matter, particularly child labor, without the addition of a world bureau of reformers, too. Labor conditions are markedly varied according to local points of view. Between nations whose workingmen have tied themselves up to the Amsterdam internationale, nations with socialistic governments and highly prosperous union labor nations like the United States there is nothing much in common worth discussing. Each has to meet its problems in its own way and safeguard labor according to its own conditions.

The other humanitarian provisions of the treaty steered clear of domestic problems and stuck to purely international issues, as is only proper. White slavery, opium transport, trade in arms, co-operation against the spread of disease, free communication and transit—these are topics international in scope. The league will best decide that it is unnecessary to take in all the activities permitted by the treaty. The more it restricts itself the better record it will make.

HUGE TOLL OF CARELESSNESS

Northern Wisconsin has just gone through a severe epidemic of forest fires. It is the same old story retold every year. This year the spring fires were worse than they have been for a long time. Usually the worst fires are in the fall, but the dry spring this year helped to make timber tracts and cut-over lands particularly hazardous.

The fires this spring, causing losses aggregating hundreds of thousands of dollars and the calling out of state troops, demonstrated at least two things. One is that laws designed to avoid forest fires are not enforced. The other is that people who go into the woods are exceedingly careless. The campaign of education which has been going on for a number of years to promote caution in the use of fire in the woods has, it appears, made only indifferent progress. Camp fires are left burning after the campers depart, lighted cigar and cigarette stubs are carelessly thrown into brush and dry grass. Insipid fires are ignored. All of these things any person accustomed to going in these northern woods, whether for fishing or other purposes, can testify to. Timber owners will vouch for them.

It is a reflection on our citizenship and on the competency of state government to suffer forest fires to go on annually destroying large tracts of second growth timber and from time to time virgin timber. The damage to second growth timber by the fires which have just been brought under control is incalculable. If we appraise this growing timber at its worth fifty years hence.

Practically all forest fires are the result of carelessness in the beginning and indifference until they get beyond control. Timber is still a large Wisconsin resource. It ought to be kept so indefinitely. We ought to give forest protection and reforestation greater attention. It is a sound conservation and a sound business policy. It is a difficult problem to protect the woods against fire, but it can be done to a far larger extent than they are protected at present. Laws for preventing and suppressing fires can be better enforced and the public can be educated or compelled to respond to these obligations when it goes into the woods.

INCOME TAX PUBLICITY

There was little doubt among those who followed the case that the supreme court of the United States would uphold the right of newspapers to publish federal income taxes paid by corporations and industries under the publicity act passed by congress. It would be utterly inconsistent with the freedom of the press to hold that a law which laid tax rates open to public inspection prohibited their publication by newspapers. The effort to construe that portion of the statute, even though not specifically repealed, which previously had forbidden the publication of any part of income tax laws as taking precedence over the right to publish impliedly conferred by the recent act of congress, was strained and unsupported by sound reasoning. The question of whether it is good public policy to publish income tax returns was not involved. It was solely a question of whether congress had conferred on newspapers the right to publish. The fact that the right was unanimously upheld by the supreme court shows that it was hardly a debatable proposition.

TODAY'S POEM.

By HAL COCHRAN

LAD AND LASS

I talked to the Man in the Moon, last night, and I said to him, frankly, said I, "Say, what do you see by the rays of your light, that's the most pleasing thing to your eye?"
He just kinda beamed, as he often has done, and he answered my question with, "Well, the scene I like best, after all, is the one that I really had better not tell."
I coaxed for a while, as he held to his smile, and kept straining his gaze on the earth. Then, loath to confide, "Take a look," he replied, "at the scene, for whatever it's worth."
And what do you think that I saw, far away? 'Twas merely a lass and a lad, I quickly imagined. 'Twas cupid at play, as he thought that the Moon Man had had.
"Now, then," he explained, "is the very best sight, that I see every night, from above. For I feel that the best use that's made of my light, is the use by young people in love."

MORE WATER

A few physicians not particularly interested in the booming of health resorts still believe mineral waters have some value in the treatment of certain disease conditions. Just what the patient gets in a mineral water and not in ordinary tap or well water nobody seems to know. For a while it was quite the thing to ascribe the miracles wrought by mineral waters to their radio activity or radium content, but that lost its interest when people began to learn that all natural waters are more or less radio active, contain more or less radium. I am inclined to agree with Dr. Jesse Feiring Williams, professor of physical education in teachers college, Columbia university, who tells us in his recent book "Personal Hygiene Applied," that much of the supposed value of mineral waters lies in the comfort able surroundings, the outdoor activities, the exercise, the baths, perhaps the patient's attentiveness to proper dieting and resting at the spa. The use of mineral water away from health resort is therefore frequently disappointing. As Dr. Williams tersely puts it: Persons in good health do not require special waters; persons with disease should consult a physician. Dr. Williams takes occasion to point out the absurdity of using so called lithia water. People who are fond of all these philosophical adventures should look up Dr. Williams' book—they'll find it illuminating.

A question asked every day is, how much water does one require, and in what quantities and at what times should one take it?

The daily quantity needed for good health varies greatly with different conditions of weather, climate, diet, physical activity. If an average can be mentioned at all it is six or eight glasses of water apart from the water taken in or with food. It is a good habit to drink at least a glass of water on rising in the morning; a glass with breakfast; another glass in mid-morning; glassful with lunch at midday; another glassful mid-afternoon; a glassful with evening dinner; another glassful at bedtime. That makes nearly three pints of water in the day, aside from water in or with food. Many of us need much more water than that in the summer time or when we are working or playing.

Some old theories about the ill effect of drinking cold water before a meal or while at a meal or immediately after a meal, are no longer given serious consideration, because physiology has taught us that water taken in such circumstances improves digestion and has no actual ill effect. Particularly is it advisable if one feels at all thirsty.

A great many elderly folk, or feeble ones, like to drink a pint or so of hot water on rising or in the half-hour or so before breakfast in the morning. They find that this helps to regulate the function of the bowel. It is at any rate a harmless habit, and if one prefers hot water to cold in the morning, it is perfectly beneficial to take it hot. Sometimes more or less salt is added to the water, but that is often objectionable, since most of us get too much salt in or on our food anyway, and the addition of the salt does not add anything to the physiological action of the water. If a liberal drink of water, hot or cold, is taken first thing on rising, and the impulse to empty the bladder is restrained until after breakfast, this often proves effective in opposing constipation.

When the diet includes a considerable proportion of fresh vegetables and fruits, one needs less additional water. When the diet is largely meat, one needs relatively more water.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Emergency Disinfection

A quart of water of questionable purity may be disinfected for drinking by adding to it a drop or two will do no harm of tincture of iodine, and shaking it up and letting it stand 20 minutes before drinking.

Harry Houdini may have learned a lot of things in Appleton before he got out of a sack under water. But if he is still studying, here is a mighty fine suggestion contained in a recent news paper item: "Postal inspector believes the criminal entered in an empty sack."

Sometimes we think Harry might have made an excellent aide-man. Think of the embarrassing situations he could crawl out of.

The society ed. thinks she could get through with her work a lot earlier every day if she could condense the clubs and parties into a few words such as, "They met and etc."

AUTO GAINING IN USE TO CARRY NATION ABOUT

Railroads and Electric Lines Also Have Been Growing in Last Years

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington, D. C.—This is a year of special interest in the world of transportation as the public is pausing to consider the tremendous strides which have been made in railroad operation. There now are three great branches of public transportation by land: the steam railroad, the electric railroad and the gasoline motorbus. Three methods of propelling vehicles, all relatively modern, have advanced the industry to fabulous size.

It has been approximately 100 years since the first steam railroad was operated. The people of England this June were to hold a celebration of the centennial of the event. It has been only some 27 years since the electric railway was made a practical means of transportation and only 30 years since the event of the motor car.

BILLIONS INVESTED

Today the investment in American steam railroad is estimated at from $19,000,000,000 to $22,000,000,000—there is some difference of opinion among authorities as to the value—while the electric railways show an investment of $6,000,000,000 with another $4,000,000,000 in the supply end of the business.

In the motor car industry $1,700,000,000 is invested. While this figure may look somewhat small beside the figures for the steam and electric railways, it must be remembered that no track need be built for the motor car, no stations and no transmission lines. Nearly $1,000,000,000 has been expended by the federal, state and local governments on improved highways which now show a mileage of 2,866,000. This may be compared with approximately 25,000 miles of steam railroads and 42,000 miles of electric railways.

It is a curious fact that the first man to operate an electric car on a track did so about as far back as the originators of the steam railroad. In 1825, Thomas Davenport of Brandon, Vermont, a village blacksmith, who is declared to have been a man of neither wealth nor education, developed an electric motor which actually propelled a vehicle on a short track.

STILL OPERATES

His work was so rudimentary, however, that the device did not prove practical. It was not until May 4, 1888, that the first commercial electric line was operated. That was in Richmond, Virginia, and Frank J. Sprague was the epoch-making promoter of the line. This was the first overhead trolley line and it is still in operation. The Sprague success ended nearly 50 years of experimentation and was so widely recognized as genuine and practical that within a year 50 companies were organized in the United States.

Today 830 electric car lines are in operation carrying annually 16,000,000,000 passengers, or approximately eleven times as many as the steam roads and bus lines haul. The electric cars carry each person in the United States 117 times a year. This figure has risen steadily since the first line.

In 1890 each person in the country had 32 rides a year. By 1902 the figure had almost doubled—61; in 1907 it was 85; in 1912 it was 100; in 1917 it was 109.

The automobile is the baby of American transportation but a very lusty one. A precise comparison can scarcely be made between privately owned cars and common carries such as steam and electric railways. However, the busses, now rapidly multiplying, can be compared.

In 1895 the production of passenger automobiles in the United States amounted to four—the number a single factory today can produce in the twinkling of an eye. In 1924 the production was 3,243,285. Motor trucks were not made until 1904. In that year 411 were produced. They did not increase in early so rapid a ratio as did the passenger cars. It took the passenger cars only three years to jump from 4 to 1,000. In three years trucks had increased from 411 to only 700. Then their use began to increase, reaching a peak in 1923, amounting to 2,627,728 units.

That was the peak year for passenger cars, too, 3,624,231 being made. To get back to the question of busses. There are 60,000 in the United States. Independents, that is individuals or companies making a sole business of transporting by bus, operates 31,100. Electric railways operate 3,250 as adjuncts to their car lines. Hotels operate 1,600 for the convenience of guests. Schools now are using 20,000 chiefly in rural districts where bus lines have regular routes to pick up children.

Sightseeing busses numbers 1,500. Two-thousand nine-hundred busses are used by real estate firms, department stores, apartment houses, garages and factories, while railroad terminal companies operate 250. The electric railway constantly is increasing its use of the bus, such increase having amounted to 122 per cent in the last year. In developing suburbs of cities where the population has not yet reached the point to justify track construction, the companies put in busses.

The steam railroads, too, are increasing the use of the bus. Recently, the railroad world was amazed when the Boston and Maine railroad applied to the interstate commerce commission for permission to abandon 1,000 miles of line and declared it intended to substitute busses.

Chicago was the first city in the United States to have a sewage system. It was not built until 1855.

Q. Why is the International Date Line out in the Pacific Ocean? W. H.

A. The 180th meridian in the Pacific Ocean was selected as the International Date Line largely for purposes of convenience. NEW PLEASURES ARE OFFERED AT WAUPACA LAKES

Huge Pavilion Is Built at Indian Crossing—Two Divorces Up in Court

Waupaca—Waupaca's famous summer resort, Chain o' Lakes, will be more attractive this year than ever, because of the many additional features added to "nature's natural playground" for the convenience of the public. Grand View Hotel, the largest at the lakes, is to open its doors for the season on June 14 under the same management as in the past few years. This year the public will find a road motorbus service running at convenient hours, connecting with all busses from Appleton and meeting all trains.

Lockley Lodge opens the season on May 30 under the management of a new man, Joseph J. Reichert. Brimner Inn has already started the season. This place located on Hicks lake is easily accessible to the city people. Lockley hall, on Round lake, and Grand View on Rainbow lake, give the guest a view of the "kill-arners of Wisconsin."

Wisconsin Veterans Home, on Rainbow lake, is one of the show places on the chain. A favorite camping ground is to be found at Camp Cleghorn where the training school of the Independent Order of Good Templars is maintained for a period each summer. The camp is located on a peninsula stretching out between Columbus and Long lakes. The Waupaca Service company maintain a picnic ground at Electric dock on Rainbow lake, which is always open to public use.

NEW RESORT
At Indian Crossing the visitor will find the newest pleasure haunt in the form of a mammoth pavilion built as large as the state law will allow and made in the most modern type with all conveniences including rest rooms, lavatories and shower baths. A dock to be constructed along one side will allow passengers on boats coming through the channel at the crossing to be discharged at the pavilion. The structure is said to have cost in excess of $10,000. It was formerly intended to have the opening in June but it is not likely this can be done. Loyola Villa, on the shore between Rainbow and Hicks lakes, is one of the show places of the entire Chain o' Lakes. Here during each summer many young men studying for the priesthood spend several weeks.

Waupaca Chamber of Commerce is furnishing information concerning the lakes and directs visitors to the resorts or gives information concerning the renting of cottages of which there are many. Quite a few were built this year.

Boy scouts of Waupaca are contemplating holding a Waupaca-co rally in this city or at Chain o'Lakes on July 4. The local scouts are not aware of the number of scout troops within the county and as no organization exists the boys are anxious that there be a meeting. At the regular meeting of scout troop No. 2, now known as the Lone Pine troop, it was decided to put the matter up to all other troops within the county. No doubt a program of games and a general enjoyment will be arranged in addition to get-together rally. All other scoutmasters are asked to confer with or write to Scoutmaster Seth Ballard of Lone Pine troop, Waupaca.

Mrs. W. Irving of Manawa, was elected chairman of the district nominating committee to the State Federation of Womens clubs to be held later in the season at Green Bay. The election of Mrs. Irving was an official act of the district convention at Waupaca last week.

Judge Fowler, sitting on the bench in circuit court in session here, refused to grant a divorce to Myrtle B. Turner from her husband J. George Turner of this city. Mrs. Turner has been residing at Gills Landing since the separation and has a daughter by a former marriage. Mr. Turner has also been married before. The present Mrs. Turner is his third wife. The defendant has been employed as a plumber by a local concern for the past six years.

9 Reasons for World Leadership

CITY PAYS DEBT OF GRATITUDE TO EX-MAYOR REUTER

Huge Crowd Adopts Resolution Recognizing His Leadership in Building Bridge

Leadership of former Mayor Henry Reuter in financing and constructing Cherry-st bridge, dedicated to soldiers and sailors of Outagamie-co Tuesday night, was recognized formally and vociferously by ten or twelve thousand people who attended the dedication ceremonies on the south approach of the bridge. Following an address by Mayor Goodland, in which he paid a high tribute to former Mayor Reuter, the huge crowd unanimously adopted a resolution which publicly acknowledged the debt of the community to Mr. Reuter and to the men who assisted him in constructing the bridge.

Mr. Reuter was unable to attend the dedication ceremony because of illness. He has been in poor health for several weeks and a few days after he went to bed in an effort to recover his strength. He was invited to attend the dedication ceremony but was forced to decline because of his condition. His letter acknowledging receipt of the invitation was read by Mayor Goodland and the resolution followed:

Following is the resolution as adopted by the crowd:

Whereas, we are gathered here this evening to celebrate the completion of the Cherry Street bridge and to dedicate it to the development and prosperity of our community, it is fitting that we call to mind the men who made this occasion possible. The Cherry Street Bridge is the realization of a dream. For many years leaders among our people reared the desire of a crossing over the Fox River in the west end of the city; they dreamed of the benefit a bridge at Cherry Street would be to this city and the surrounding community, but it was not until the dream was crystallized under determination and wise leadership that a start was made.

"This leadership was provided in a large measure by Henry Reuter, then Mayor of Appleton. Mr. Reuter, aided by the counsel of alderman and other citizens with large visions and a high sense of duty to their community, crystallized the enthusiasm and directed the energy of our citizens to make possible the occasion we are celebrating today.

"Therefore, be it resolved that Appleton and other communities here represented, all benefited by the Cherry Street Bridge, publicly acknowledge the debt of gratitude that they owe to former Mayor Henry Reuter, and the men who aided him, for the wise leadership which they exercised in the financing and construction of the Cherry Street Bridge, and be it further

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Common Council of the City of Appleton with the request that it be made a part of the permanent record of the city."

Mr. Reuter's letter acknowledging the invitation to attend the dedication ceremonies follows:

"It is with pleasure that I acknowledge receipt of the City of Appleton's invitation to join in the dedication of the Cherry Street bridge. Owing to sickness it will be impossible for me to attend. I would be pleased to have you extend greetings and best wishes to the people of Appleton.

"The council of 1923 has just cause to be proud of its achievements, having built the bridge without a bond issue, without increasing the taxes or without raising the assessment of property."

C. C. DELEGATES HOME FROM CAPITAL MEETING

A. C. Remley, national councillor, and Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of Appleton Chamber of Commerce, returned Saturday evening from Washington, D. Sessions lasted for several days and the program included exhaustive discussions of national and international business problems. Noted speakers appeared to present these subjects. The mammoth office building of the national chamber also was dedicated at that time. Mr. Remley witnessed the funeral of Gen. Nelson A. Miles while at the capital.

AID SOCIETIES FORM GROUP FOR DISTRICT

Ladies Aid society of the Evangelical Lutheran church here will be represented at the organization meeting of the Fond du Lac pastoral circuit at Oshkosh, on Thursday, May 28. Fourteen other societies will be represented, among them Neenah, Fond du Lac, Ripon, Berlin, Kewaskum, Black Creek and Oconto. About 200 delegates are expected for the session, which will take place at the Emmanuel Evangelical church on South Park-ave.

The organization of the ladies aid societies of each circuit of the Evangelical church in Wisconsin was advocated at the meeting of the Wisconsin district societies at Sheboygan last year. The meeting of societies of the Fond du Lac area Thursday is in accordance with that recommendation.

The object of the district convention is to bring the ladies of the various cities into closer contact and in this way to enable them to perform better and more efficient service.

WORLD COURT TO PUT END TO WAR

Establishment of the world court is one of the most effective means of promoting peace among the nations of the world. E. R. Hicks, supreme president of the Fraternal Reserve association of Oshkosh, told Appleton Rotarians and their guests, members of the Grand Army from Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna and Appleton, at their weekly meeting at the Conway hotel Tuesday noon.

Entertainment was provided by pupils of the J. F. Bannister Academy of Dancing, Miss Marie Schomer and Miss Isabel Wilcox, the latter of the Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Hicks likened the nations of the world to individuals when he declared that the disputes between men seldom are determined by resort to force. Civilized men carry their controversies into court which have power to enforce their decisions and he urged the same procedure for settling disputes between nations.

Understanding of each other is essential to peaceful relations. Mr. Hicks said. He pointed to the long friendship between Canada and the United States, declaring border patrols and forts are not required because the people understand each other and compose their differences.

Tribute was paid to the Grand Army of the Republic for the courage of its members and he said the organization was a great factor in making the world understand that the United States is for universal peace.

REHEARSE SUNDAY FOR VALLEY SAENGERFEST

CARS OFF AVENUE MEMORIAL DAY

Chief Prim Asks Public to Keep Parade Area Entirely Cleared of Traffic

Automobiles should be kept off E. College-ave between Oneida and Union-sts on the afternoon of Memorial day, Saturday, so as not to interfere with the parade and exercises, according to instructions issued to the public by Chief George T. Prim of the police department.

Cars should be cleared from this area by 12:30 at noon and no machines should be parked there until after the parade has left Lawrence Memorial chapel to march to the cemetery. There are two other places the police desire kept clear of automobiles until after the parade has passed. These are S. Morrison and S. Onel-dasts.

This arrangement will give the public ample room to view the parade, the chief says, and will eliminate congestion and danger of accidents.

STORES CLOSED MEMORIAL DAY

Thirty-three Merchants Decide to Keep Places Open Friday Evening Instead

Practically all of the stores in Appleton will be closed Memorial day, which falls on Saturday, according to announcement of the retail trades committee of the chamber of commerce. This includes establishments other than drug stores, ice cream parlors and such as usually are open on holidays.

In order, that this may not prove a hardship to shoppers, a large number of the stores will remain open Friday evening for the same hours as usually are observed on Saturdays. This was done in order to give the public a chance to do their buying for two days, as a double holiday occurs this time.

One department store, several furniture stores and a few others will not remain open Friday evening. Thirty-three establishments have announced their intention to stay open until 9 o'clock including meat markets and groceries.

Chimney Fire

The fire department responded at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning to an alarm from the home of Mrs. G. Vandeleucht, 727 W. Eighth-st. A chimney fire occurred but no damage was done.

Performance

Across the continent—coast to coast—then from Canada to Mexico—4664.5 miles—without adjusting brakes!

There's the greatest test and the greatest proof of the excellence of Rickenbacker 4-wheel brakes.

"Cannon Ball Baker" in his sensational record-smashing drives did it.

"I adjusted my brakes at the end of 4664.5 miles," says the famous driver, "and not because they needed it even then, but I was going after that other record—El Paso to Los Angeles (908.5 miles which he made in 21 hours, 23 minutes), and I didn't want to take any chances.

"A quarter-turn of the adjusting nut was all they needed."

Just think!—that 4664.5 miles was equal to at least 20,000 miles of average driving.

At least 20,000! For in his coast-to-coast rush (3,106.5 miles in 71 hours, 33 minutes—actual driving time) "Cannon Ball" had to make thousands of quick decelerations and hundreds of emergency stops.

Remember, he had low pressure, balloon tires. Only 25 pounds of air in them—to protect himself from the road shocks.

Couldn't make right angle turns and hairpin bends at full speed.

He says those wonderful brakes really made these records possible.

Because he could, in a few feet, slow down from 70 miles per hour to 25 and take each turn in safety. Then with his 65 horse power motor, get away again as quickly—

But—that's putting grief on brakes.

The route down the Pacific Coast—Vancouver, B. C., to Tia Juana, Mexico—1,558 miles, crossed three mountain ranges—roads up and down—with acute switch backs and steep grades.

Just a series of alternate accelerations and brakes. And yet these brakes were not adjusted till the end of 4664.5 miles—of such terrific driving.

If you have not sensed the smoothness and efficiency of these 4-wheel brakes you really cannot know what perfect braking qualities are.

Drive this Rickenbacker Six yourself—it will be a revelation to you.

Girls Make Good "Men" in Play, "Looks Like Rain," Given by Graduates

Kaukauna—The senior class of Outagamie Rural Normal school scored a virtual triumph in the presentation of its annual class play, "Looks Like Rain," Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium before an audience of about 350 people. Characters took their parts well.

All of the characters were girls, although four of them made handsome men. The work of Irene Maas, Appleton, as Monty Mansfield, hero of the play, was especially distinguished. Her posture, her expressions and gestures and her voice tones were as interesting to follow as the plot of the play.

Although the "men" made no attempt to change their feminine voices, they possessed the appearance of male characters. By merely plastering their darning hair closely to their heads and donning male attire, the girls transformed themselves sufficiently to look the part.

Miss Hazel Loos, Ellington, as Elmo Armstrong, Monty's cousin, "villain" of the play who was to receive the entire Mansfield estate provided Monty was unable to increase $20,000 to $30,000 in a year's time. Monty had invested in a hotel which was famous because of its mineral water but lack of rain dried up the spring and ruined business.

Action of the play hinged upon the prospects of rain on the last day of the year in which Monty was to have made a success.

Reggie Van Wert, an ambitious author and Monty's close friend, was Miss Helen Calmes, Appleton. Reggie introduced the idea of thought concentration to produce the desired tempest.

Marie Brighton, Green Bay, as Jerry Watson, former proprietor of the hotel, was a typical henpecked husband who delighted in telling who was boss of his family—when his wife wasn't around. Martha Watson, Jerry's better half, played by Leone Courtois, Appleton, also was a part well acted. Nellie Watson, heroine of the play, was Tawnette Steenis, Appleton. It was evident from the beginning that she was attached to Monty Mansfield and the third act ended in the usual happy way, especially for Monty and Nellie.

Emma Cavil, West DePere, secured the biggest laugh of the evening when she appeared on the scene as Violet Hickey, a neighbor. She represented an uncouth country girl, very ignorant but with a brilliant imagination which furnished a great deal of material for Reggie VanWert's new book.

Music between acts was provided by the augmented training school orchestra. Vocal selections were sung by a trio composed of Violet Schiele, Olive Jacobson and Wilma Klumb.

Three 1-act Comedies Will Take Place of Usual Longer Stage Production

Kaukauna—Tickets for the three class plays of the high school seniors were issued Tuesday and will be sold by members of the class. Sale of reserved seats will begin next Monday morning at Look and Brauer drug stores. The plays will be given in the high school auditorium Wednesday evening, June 3.

Rehearsals are being held several times daily under the direction of Miss Ruth Nemcheck. There was a debate as to whether a play should be presented this year and the affirmative decision was reached after it was too late to prepare for the usual 3-act comedy. The three 1-act plays have only a few characters and do not require so much previous training.

The program is scheduled to begin at 7:30. The skits are entitled "The Florist Shop," "The Fox Boller" and "A Good Woman." All are of a humorous nature.

THOUSANDS SEE DEDICATION OF CHERRY BRIDGE

Structure Is Formally Presented as Memorial to Veterans of Three Wars

Fully 10,000 persons of Appleton and surrounding communities witnessed the dedication of Cherry-st viaduct as "Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Bridge" and thrilled to its inspiring addresses and ceremonies Tuesday evening. That the people regarded it as an epoch-making event was evidenced by the unprecedented attendance under weather conditions that were far from favorable.

Long before the arrival of the parade at the place of dedication, crowds had come seeking points of vantage for better observation of the scenes or closer distance to the speakers stand. At the beginning of the program practically 10,000 to 12,000 persons, according to varying estimates, had gathered there.

The public program had a distinctly military atmosphere in view of the fact that the bridge was named for Appleton's veterans of the last three wars. Military bands rendered the music; military units marched in procession; military officials took part in the ceremonies, that formally turned over the bridge to the veterans as a memorial, and a beautiful display of fire works celebrated the event.

PARADE IS FORMED
After a banquet in Conway hotel for city, county and state officials, visitors from neighboring communities, and others interested in the bridge, the parade formed on E. College-ave and proceeded to the bridge.

Among the units of the parade were the local Company D-127th Infantry the 120th Field Artillery band of Appleton, United States naval reserves from Green Bay, their "Jockey" band, members of the American legion, United Grand Army of the Republic and city of Spanish-American War Veterans, officials.

The parade led over the bridge and back to the speakers' stand at the north end. Half way across Miss Florence Steinhauser, daughter of Alderman Mike Steinhauser, drum major of the band, christened the bridge by tying a ribbon to the railing.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., who presided at all exercises of the day, introduced the speakers, after first giving an address explaining the meaning of the occasion and reciting briefly the history of the bridge project.

Magnavoxes loaned by Irving Zuelke and installed by Langstadt-Meyer Co. were used to carry the voices of the speakers to greater distance.

DREAM CAME TRUE
"Some people say that dreams don't come true," said the mayor, "but I tell you that here is a beautiful dream of many years that has come true. Perhaps some of you don't appreciate that this means not only to Appleton, but to all the cities of the Fox-River valley; yet when strangers come to our city over this structure and see to their right an industrial center and to the left of them the beauty of the Fox river, they cannot but say that this is one of the greatest scenes in northern Wisconsin. The bridge means a great deal to the west end of our city, because it will tend to build up this section. We may not notice it now, but we will marvel at the growth ten years from today."

The mayor praised A. W. Priest for giving to the city the right of way for the north approach to the bridge, and lauded those who had a part in promoting the bridge project. Greatest credit of all, however, was due to former Mayor Henry Reuter for the success of the project, he said. He regretted that serious illness of Mr. Reuter prevented him from being present at the ceremonies.

A resolution publicly acknowledging the leadership of Mr. Reuter was read and moved by Joseph Koller, Jr., submitted by Mayor Goodland to a vote of the populace and adopted by loud acclaim.

KELLER RESPONDS
The principal address of the evening was given by Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of First Methodist church, who was delegated by the city to formally present the bridge to the war veterans. His address is to be found elsewhere in this newspaper. A short speech of acceptance was made by Attorney L. Hugo Keller, Appleton, commander of the Wisconsin department of the American legion.

"It is my privilege," he said "in behalf of war veterans to accept this magnificent structure dedicated to the men who served the government in time of war."

"The bridge itself is a substantial contribution to the material progress and welfare of this community. But we are not so much interested in the material values as the spiritual values of this structure."

"It is one of the paradoxes of life that that which appears to the eye or touch must surely crumble, but that which cannot be reached by human touch or sight will never perish. The great architectural wonders of antiquity are today merely ruins, while the words of a Socrates, a Homer, or a Plato are as inspiring today as when they first were spoken. Upon Mt. Moriah was built the great temple of Jerusalem, but has long passed into ruins, while the words of the Man of Galilee today are the solace of unnumbered millions."

PRINCIPLE WILL LIVE
"This bridge, too, shall pass away, but what it represents and the principle to which it is dedicated shall never perish. It will tell future Americans of the patriotic sacrifices made by the manhood of this community. 'This is our hope, and this is our prayer, that this beautiful structure so fittingly dedicated will be to its observers an inspiration to patriotic service and sacrifice. In that spirit, I take great pleasure in accepting for the war veterans of the community this magnificent memorial."

M. W. Torkelson, engineer-secretary of the state highway commission was the last speaker. He pleaded for indulgence saying that engineers usually do not possess the gift of poetry and eloquence such as was evidenced in the preceding addresses; they dealt rather with cold facts.

He sensed the inspiration of the occasion, however, and predicted that the newly erected bridge would be significant not only to the community, county and state, but also to the United States. He mentioned the prospective system of marking of federal highways of which this structure will become a link. He praised the bridge as being "equal to the best in design, beauty and execution."

CONTACT IS PROGRESS
Touching upon the intellectual and spiritual values of an important highway and bridge, Mr. Torkelson declared that whereas isolation makes for misery and stagnation, contact with the outside world makes for happiness and progress.

Dedication of the bridge to war veterans was a fitting procedure, he said. He felt sure that if automobiles, good roads and bridges and resulting contact between north and south had been realized in the days of 1861 to 1865, the war which rent this country might have been averted.

In connection with the program the Artillery band rendered a concert and Carl McKee sang several solos. A pavement dance and a display of fireworks, hardly ever equaled in this community, concluded the day's festivities.

CONTACT IS PROGRESS
Touching upon the intellectual and spiritual values of an important highway and bridge, Mr. Torkelson declared that whereas isolation makes for misery and stagnation, contact with the outside world makes for happiness and progress.

Dedication of the bridge to war veterans was a fitting procedure, he said. He felt sure that if automobiles, good roads and bridges and resulting contact between north and south had been realized in the days of 1861 to 1865, the war which rent this country might have been averted.

In connection with the program the Artillery band rendered a concert and Carl McKee sang several solos. A pavement dance and a display of fireworks, hardly ever equaled in this community, concluded the day's festivities.

day is a screen adaptation of Blanche Updight's novel "The Valley of Content," presented by Louis B. Mayer through Metro.
During the filming of the production, Marjorie Rumberg was appearing on the stage in Los Angeles in "The Valley of Content," a play based upon the same novel. In the screen version, Mary Alden plays the role of Kane, a daughter who has been tyrannized over by her sanctimonious father till she rebels; Kathleen Kirkham is Lottie Bird, a lady who lives by her wits; Wheeler Oakman play "Winnie" a typical lounge lizard; Kane, the father who leads a double life, is well done by Sidney Grey; Mrs. Kane is played by Martha Franklin.

This is Ben Wilson's third Grand-Asher picture, one of a series of ten. It shows class in every respect and is particularly well acted.

GET PROMISE OF HELP FOR OPENING ROAD TO BRIDGE

NEIGHBORS PAY HIGH TRIBUTE TO CITY SPIRIT

Visitors Pledge Help to City to Get Right-of-way Through
Lynch Farm

The congratulations of practically every community in the Fox River valley link between Oshkosh and Kaukauna, in addition to the counties of Winnebago and Outagamie and the state of Wisconsin, upon the completion of the Cherry-st bridge were extended to the city of Appleton at the community banquet in the Conway hotel Tuesday evening. The banquet started the series of festivities that marked the dedication of the bridge to the soldiers, sailors and marines of the Civil war, Spanish-American and World wars.

Among those who joined the congratulations were Mayor Henry Kitz of Oshkosh, Mayor Sande of Neenah, Mayor N. G. Rummel of Menasha, Mayor C. E. Raught of Kaukauna, President Anton Jansen of Little Chute, Clerk Henry Langenberg representing President Doerfler of Kimberly, P. H. Ryan, representing chairman Mike Mack of Outagamie-co supervisors, Ernest Raddatz, chairman of the Winnebago-co highway committee and M. W. Torkelson, engineer-secretary of the state highway commission.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., chairman of the day, acted as toastmaster at the banquet. Dr. J. A. Holmes said grace and Dr. Earl Baker led in singing. Alderman Mark Catlin, representing the city council also gave an address.

MUST STRAIGHTEN ROUTE
Importance of the new bridge in relieving traffic congestion and in providing a more direct route to and from the city, as well as promoting harmony between all the cities of the Fox River valley were stressed in every address. The hearty support of all communities in overcoming the one obstacle to the complete success of the structure—straightening the route at the south end of the bridge—was promised.

Approximately 250 persons attended the banquet. Among the guests were city officials and aldermen from Appleton and neighboring communities, members of Outagamie and Winnebago county boards and others interested in the bridge project.

In extending a friendly welcome to the guests, Mayor Goodland appealed to the judgement of all in declaring the structure a masterpiece of beauty and workmanship and its usefulness to the surrounding territory and the state.

Alderman Catlin took up the thread and concluded that the entire community must be intensely interested in the project, "otherwise there would not be so many persons here."

"In this day of automobiles," he said, "when Oshkosh becomes almost as familiar to Appleton residents as their own city, and Appleton as familiar to the people of Oshkosh as Oshkosh, people are quick to recognize that this bridge is advantageous not only to Appleton but to the other communities also."

The alderman called attention to the program of paving Cherry and Richmond-sts., and its effect upon future traffic. He said Riverview Country club had practically assured the city of giving it enough land to straighten the road at the south approach of the bridge. The remaining obstacle of extending the road straight through to the Menasha end instead of its present circuitous route, is a problem that Winnebago-co must help this city solve. Inasmuch as Appleton cannot go into another county to condemn property for acquisition for highway purposes.

VANAGTMEAL PIGEONS ARE FIRST IN FLIGHT

Carrier pigeons from the loft of Frank Vanagtmeal, Appleton, came in first Monday from a flight from Minnesota Junction. They were liberated at 8:15 Monday morning, and made the flight in good time despite the poor weather conditions. Second place was won by birds owned by Walter Speck, third by Albert Ludke, fourth by H. Hasley of Kaukauna and fifth by Herbert Roland of Appleton.

This flight was postponed from Sunday, when unfavorable weather made it impossible. The birds of the Kaukauna-Appleton club will be shipped to Janesville, Friday to fly Sunday.

FRAME NAMED PHONE MANAGER

Appleton Man Is Placed in Charge of Company's Exchange at New London

James A. Frame has been appointed manager of the New London exchange of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. to succeed R. J. Marshall, resigned, and will take up his new duties at once. Mr. Frame was employed in the plant department here at the time of his new appointment, and first entered the service of the company in May 1919, at Berlin.

He held the Berlin position until the following March, when he was transferred to the Appleton exchange. He remained in the plant department of the exchange here until July, 1920, when he was transferred once more, this time to the Appleton district office as assistant district traffic supervisor. He held this position until 1922, and then was transferred to Waupesa as exchange manager there. The following year Mr. Frame took a leave of absence and left the service to enter business here. He returned to the service in July of last year, and since then has continued in the plant department.

Changes at Oconto also are announced by J. T. Quinlan, district manager. E. F. Hull, manager at Oconto, has been transferred to Merrill. His place at Oconto will be taken by Roy Seeley, who has been employed at the Fond du Lac exchange.

RURAL MAILMEN WILL DECORATE VETS GRAVES

Rural carriers are making preparations to assist in marking graves of war veterans for Memorial day. Each carrier will take wreaths and flags to the various communities along his route, and either place them on the graves himself or distribute them among persons who will place them.

The wreaths and flags are furnished by the Grand Army of the Republic. J. D. Hanchett, commander of George Eggleston post is in charge of the distribution. The rural carriers have been doing this work for a number of years with the consent of postal authorities.

Keller Is Speaker
The American Legion of Montello, held a public celebration on Sunday afternoon in the city auditorium to commemorate the anniversary of its organization. L. Hugo Keller of this city was one of the speakers on the program arranged to stir up enthusiasm of legion members and supporters to make a good showing in the legion endowment drive, which is a national undertaking.

some day, and there will be one continuous city from here to Green Bay. I assure you, the highway commission will do all it can to boost this region."

MIGHT "ANNEX MENASHA"
It was Mayor Rummel of Menasha who started the jesting about annexation. He said he was willing to take back the prediction he made a number of years ago to former Mayor or Paville about a future annexing of Appleton to Menasha. He complimented the city officials for their part in the success of the project. Greater credit, however, is due to the taxpayers. The bridge, he said, is testimonial of their loyalty and good will toward the city government.

Greetings were brought from the sister city of Neenah by Mayor Sande who commended Appleton for the great service it had rendered the entire valley and state by erecting this bridge.

"You should be happy that the project is finished," he said, "and I assure that the people of the valley are with you and will support me in my statement that I hope you will acquire such ground as will be necessary to complete the road."

SEVERAL BANKERS GO TO GREEN BAY MEETING

Many of the directors of Citizens National bank will attend the annual convention of Wisconsin Bankers association, group 2 which will be held Thursday at Hotel Northland, Green Bay. Henry W. Tuttrup, president of the bank, or William Konrad Jr., cashier, will also attend the gathering.

Ing. B. J. Zuehlke of Appleton State bank, will be present at the convocation. The other Appleton banks will not be represented.

The question of whether banks will adopt the "service charge" will be discussed by Paul H. Schroeder, assistant cashier of the Commercial National bank, Madison. This service charge is a fee collected by banks on accounts where the average bank balance is considered by the bankers to be too small to yield income sufficient to pay the cost.

Five hundred persons are expected to attend the meetings, and this number will include representatives from the 200 member banks.

Dale Ittekk, state representative of the Gill-Lilly company, Milwaukee, was in the city on business Tuesday. George Farrant left Sunday for a two weeks' fishing trip to Winneconne.

RECIPES

One-Period Cold Pack For Canning

BY SISTER MARY
Every housekeeper must determine for herself whether she will save money by doing her own canning of fruits and vegetables.

The woman in the country or small town who has fresh vegetables fairly under her nose undoubtedly will save an appreciable sum if she cans the surplus of her garden and orchard.

The woman who must buy her vegetables for canning must consider her problem from an entirely different angle. If the quality of the vegetables she is able to procure for canning is desirable, if the price is reasonable and if her finished product equals or exceeds the standard commodity supplied by her grocer she too will effect a worth while saving.

In order to insure a perfect "finished product" an adequate equipment and the willingness to work with scientific precision are necessary.

COLD PACK BEST
The most satisfactory method for home canning vegetables and fruits is the one-period cold pack. Preserves and pickles are quite another thing and require different handling.

The equipment for cold pack canning is, not elaborate or expensive and of course is used year after year. The canner or sterilizer can be of the boiler or pressure cooker type. The pressure cooker can be used for the cooking of many foods and is a good investment. The boiler type of sterilizer is much less expensive.

Take an inventory of your cans and be sure you have plenty of new rubbers in the house before the day you are planning to can. Never try to use old rubbers. This is of utmost importance as a defective rubber means a spoiled product. This precaution applies to any method of canning.

If you are planning to cold pack asparagus you should have the following utensils at your elbow:

Glass jars, preferably one-pint size, new rubber rings, yard square of cheese cloth, colander, large kettle for blanching, wide-mouth canning funnel, paring knife, scissor knife, searizer, measuring spoon, large preserving spoon.

This equipment will be used for any fruit or vegetable you may want to can. The kettle for blanching may be your preserving kettle.

The steps in cold pack canning are the same for fruits and vegetables with the exception that berries and soft fruits are not blanched before processing. If you keep in mind just what must be accomplished to insure the keeping of canned food the method of procedure seems simple and logical.

First the bacteria found in all matter must be killed and second the jars must be made as nearly vacuum as possible. Always sort the vegetables or fruits to be canned and put those of uniform size together.

Never try to can over-ripe fruit for too-mature vegetables. The fruit will be just as soft after canning, and will fail to keep and vegetables will be just as tough as though you had tried to use them fresh.

And now for the actual canning of a specific vegetable.

LARGE BRIMMEL HAT AND SUN BATH TO CULTIVATE BEAUTY OF HAIR

BY NOEL FRANCIS

Sun baths are my favorite method of cultivating beauty and health for my hair. I have a large leghorn hat from which the crown has been removed that I can pull my hair up through the opening and spread it over the brim. This I wear and sit in the sunlight for a while during every sunny day we have.

The sun not only makes it possible to expose all my hair to the light, but it protects my eyes and my complexion while I am taking my treatment. On days when there is no sunshine I give my scalp a massage and allow my hair to hang down my back for an hour or so, so it gets air. If not sunlight.

When I dress my hair, I coil it very loosely and keep it in place with a comb so it is never subjected to any pulling or straining.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO JOHNNY ALDEN
PRESCOTT—NEVER MAILED

I am lonely tonight, Jack, my husband—a little bit more today than I have ever been before in my life. My heart hurts with longing for you. I want to feel your arms about me. I want to look into your dear eyes and see that crooked little smile that makes your mouth tell tales even before you speak.

Most of all, dear, I want you to make me know, dear, that you love me. You did such an unkind thing to me when Alice died and it seemed to me that my heart was broken but tonight I am sending my very soul out to you with the words, You do love me, don't you?

Don't laugh at me dear heart, and say of course I do. Just take me in your arms and hold me close to your heart and tell it to me with that little catch in your voice that it had when you said to me only a little while ago "Whatever happens, dear, remember I love you and have loved you always."

Well, something did happen, Jack, and for a little while, Jack, it blotted out those words and now I am trying to remember them but my heart grows cold with apprehension and I grow terror-stricken. My breath comes cold across my lips. My heart stops beating. Something claps my throat. I strangle and gasp at the thought, I dare not ask, "Do you love me?" for I seem to see that in difference in your eyes that you gave me to understand was yours when you did not come to me in my great trouble.

What do women do, dear, when they see indifference in the eyes of those they love. It seems to me that I would rather see hate for I feel that love cannot be buried so deeply under hate as under indifference.

Hate is something tangible, something with which you can battle and perhaps overcome but indifference is so cold, so calm, so still. God Jack, how you reached the point where anything that I shall do or say means nothing to you one way or the other?

I know I am silly, dear, to harrow up my emotions in this way, but I don't want to grow calm and cold and indifferent. I want to love you—love you. I want to still thrill when you hand touches mine. I want to still tremble when you are cross. I want to weep when you are sad. I want all the joy, for I am having all the terror of loving but above all else I want the bliss of being loved.

Do other women write letters like this to their husbands? Do husbands want their wives to pour out their hearts to them in this way?

I do not know and you will never know for I shall never send you this letter. But my heart was so filled with loneliness and longing for you that in some way I had to pour out all that was in my soul.

Adventures Of The Twins

Nancy Reads Some Letters

"You'd better be hurrying," said the March Hare to Johnny Sweep who was buying a new broom.

"I'm hurrying," said Johnny good-naturedly. "But you said you were going to read the letters the people wrote to the Fairy Queen about me."

"That's so," said the March Hare. "Please begin, Nancy."

"This one is from the Baker Man," said Nancy. "This is what he says: 'Dear Fairy Queen: If the Chimney Sweep doesn't come around to my bake shop pretty soon, there is going to be trouble. It's been a long cold winter and I have had an extra lot of baking to do besides.'"

"So you see my big chimney is chock full of soot."

"When I take my cakes out of the oven they all look like chocolate cakes, the soot comes down so—so please tell Johnny Sweep that if he doesn't come around soon I won't make him any more waffles with powdered sugar on them."

"Your sooty friend," "The Baker Man."

Johnny Sweep laughed. "I'll go there first," he said. "The Baker Man pays me in waffles. It's much better than money. As long as one had something to eat and a barrel to live in, what good is money? Especially when I never wear new clothes. What's the next letter?"

"It's from The-Maid-in-the-Garden," said Nancy.

"Read it, please," said the March Hare.

So Nancy read: "Dear Fairy Queen: Where in that little rascal Johnny Sweep? The Queen says to tell you—the king says, too—that every single chimney in the palace is stuffed up with soot. Here it is, almost spring and, he hasn't been around yet. I have to hang the clothes out because the weather is so nice, but the soot comes raining down on them until they look like cross-word puzzles. Even the birds get black—really they are swifts and live in the chimneys—they are not blackbirds at all—but they get as sooty as crows and everybody thinks they are black birds. The other day they got so mad they picked my nose right off and flew away with it."

"So please send Johnny Sweep as fast as you can and maybe if he gets the chimneys cleaned out the birds will bring my nose back."

"Yours in hopes," "The-Maid-in-the-Garden."

"Well," laughed Johnny, again. "It was an ugly nose, so it doesn't matter much. But since her clothes got so dirty, I'll really have to hurry."

"There are a lot more letters," said Nancy.

"The March Hare looked at his

Does Golf Game Wreck Home Life?

This is the time of the year when that grand old Scotch game of golf is in "full swing," counting all the swings that are missed.

And there is relationship between golf and happy homes.

Probably the majority of men who play golf are office workers, who need the exercise and fresh air that the game affords.

They enjoy getting away from the office. Yet many of them fail to realize that their wives often are tied down by housework, just as much as they are by office work.

I heard a man bragging the other day that he spent eight hours of the last four Sundays on a golf course. And during this time his wife was at home, alone, growing more disgusted with her home every minute. There's a happy medium in all these matters. The wife should realize her husband enjoys a game of golf with other men, but at the same time she is not going to be happy if she is neglected and ignored every time there is an opportunity for recreation.

Marriage is a partnership, and every husband who realizes what priceless real happiness is should not get "drunk" on golf.

Health Hints

CAUSES OF HIVES

An application of hot towels is the most effective temporary relief for hives, Mrs. Mann learned.

The hot towels should be barely touched to the affected parts, and the instantly withdrawn so as to avoid blistering.

If the touching is repeated this way a number of times it will afford relief from itching, and will generally cause the eruption to disappear. Sometimes it is most convenient to hold the effected parts over a bath tub and splash the water on it with a basin.

A person affected with hives, however, should not be satisfied with temporary relief. He should begin checking up on the foods he eats. If he does not know what particular food is disagreeing with him, a doctor, by means of a sensitivity test, will be able to find out.

Authorities are agreed that there are many foods that give rise to hives, though the same food may not have the same effect on all people.

Another cause of hives is the absorption of poisons from the colon.

watch. "No time, no time!" he exclaimed. "Just tell Johnny Sweep where he is expected. Then we'll have to be starting."

"There's a letter from the Dream Maker Man and the Toy Man, the Professor, and the Weather Man, and Mrs. Sweep, and the Candie Stick Maker and the Miller and—"

"That's enough," said Johnny. "Here's my new broom and here's mine. I'm ready to do sprign-cleaning."

They all got on the March Hare's willing back and away he went to the Baker Man's House.

MAKE KITCHENS NEW WITH PAINT AND FURNITURE

New kitchens in new homes are not always perfect. And old kitchens in old homes are more often than not far from perfect. It is sometimes difficult, even in this day, to convince your builder that you must have your sink thirty-six inches from the floor and all working levels equal. Soft tints for the walls, grey, tan or white, and floors easy to clean and comfortable to stand on, are also most advisable.

Old kitchens were not so compact as present day ones. Pantries not so accessible, sinks and stoves not so conveniently arranged. Floors not so easily cared for. But though all these conditions prevail in your changes often work wonders toward modernizing a kitchen.

Paint is one important consideration. Walls should be finished with a good washable paint, to offer a hard, smooth surface to dust and dirt. Floors to be painted should have all cracks carefully filled in, should be well prepared for the paint and given a sufficient number of coats. It is poor economy to skimp on paint.

After the floor and walls, the next thing to consider is the kitchen arrangement. Kitchen cabinet, pantry, stove, sink and table should all be arranged to give the most service and to conserve steps. The stove, sink and all levels which are used for work should be the same height from the floor. The one exception to this rule is the table where mixing is done. This is usually a few inches lower than the rest of the equipment, as it is easier to knead bread, roll pie crust, etc.

When a kitchen is unusually large, it is often possible to utilize a portion of it as a breakfast nook. This saves space and countless steps by making it possible to serve many meals in the kitchen.

Sometimes in planning a breakfast nook it is advisable to arrange for additional light. A set of windows may then be cut into the wall above the nook. And it is well to consider here the advisability of more electric switches. A double wall plug, convenient to the breakfast table, makes it possible to use electric table equipment. And many serve for the electric iron, as well.

A quick method of remodeling a kitchen is to install some of the standardized kitchen cabinets and cupboards which may now be obtained in any furniture store. They come in convenient size and are quickly set up.

The question of how far one should go in furnishing and decorating a kitchen is usually a matter of individual taste and of family necessity. In farm kitchens we sometimes see rocking chairs, curtain braided rugs and other things to give a homelike air. Other kitchens have the severe simplicity of laboratories, which in reality they really are; while the majority are a happy medium between the two extremes.

BANK ATTACKS U. S. RESERVE SYSTEM RULING

Former Appleton Man Connected With Bank Involved in Important Lawsuit

A damage suit of great consequence to banks all over the country has been brought against the Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco by the Brookings state bank, of Brookings, Wash. George Wood, formerly of Appleton, is connected with the Brookings bank. The suit is the outcome of several years of controversy between the twelfth federal reserve district and various state banks in the west. Court proceedings began on May 14.

When the Federal Reserve system was organized, one of the rules demanded that banks remit checks or pay, thus cutting off the revenue which banks were accustomed to receive from exchange. All of the national banks of the country adopted this ruling, but many state banks refused. The Brookings State bank refused to forfeit its exchange, and a constant effort has been made by the Federal reserve bank to force compliance. It was said, "Many means are alleged to have been tried, one of which was to dishonor checks which passed through the San Francisco clearing house."

Trial was scheduled for February but the case was postponed until May. A conference of governors of Federal banks in the country and their councils was held in February and action was taken to get a bill through congress making such damage suits illegal. The bill was passed, and at 11 o'clock on the day of trial, May 18, the prosecuting lawyers were informed of the ruling. The matter was taken to Judge Willburton, who has been federal judge in Portland for many years, and he ruled that this particular case might be tried, because of a fine point of law on a different issue. The case is now in progress, and the suit is being tried for $30,000 actual damages, and $100,000 exemplary damages.

The weather was so cool on June 20, 1924 that a severe hailstorm occurred at that time.

Cherry-St Bridge Agitation Born Just Five Years Ago This Month

With the dedication of the Cherry-st viaduct Tuesday, the closing chapter of a long and bitter controversy was written in the annals of the city.

Although there still are a number of opponents to the Cherry-st bridge project, the dedication of this structure to the soldiers, sailors and marines of the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars, and its christening as "Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Bridge" are expected to have some effect in mollifying them.

The fight for a bridge at this location had been brewing for many years but it crystallized about three years ago. Gustava Keller said at a bridge agitation meeting that a bridge for the west end of the city had been his dream for more than 20 years. West side residents wanted a more direct outlet from the city.

It was the Lawest project that received the agitation. About five years ago the city council appropriated money for the construction of a bridge at Lawest to replace the one condemned. The project, however, was vetoed by Mayor J. A. Hawes and the money was used for other purposes. The old bridge was crumbling from the flood of June 10, 1922. Enactment of a law providing for state and county aid for the building of bridges on state trunk highways encouraged residents on the west end that their dream of a bridge here might soon be realized. Trouble started when others cast deprecating glances at the Lawest bridge overburdened with the increase in traffic and suggested a viaduct there to bridge the bluffs on opposite sides of the river.

With a request for state aid for either location submitted to the highway commission talk of viaduct was on almost every tongue. A straw vote conducted through the columns of the Appleton Post-Crescent revealed an overwhelming sentiment for the Cherry-st site. A public hearing on the matter was held by the highway commission in the city hall in the winter of 1922. When the commission delayed its decision on the matter, members of the council became anxious lest the law would be repealed and Appleton would lose its chance for a bridge. A reminder was sent to the commission asking for an early decision.

CREATE BRIDGE FUND
Meanwhile the city gave the state assurance of its readiness by creating a special bridge fund May 3, 1922 with $100,000 that had accumulated in excess of the estimated revenue of income taxes.

With the announcement that it desired more information the highway commission ordered another hearing to be held May 19, 1922. Advocates of both the Lawest and Cherry-st viaducts stormed the commission in appeals for support.

Lawest advocates argued that the "Cherry-st viaduct" would cost more than $300,000 by the time that paving projects and other incidental improvements were completed. The Lawest project, however, even at a cost of $1,000,000 would cost the city but little more after the rate and county aid and the railroad assessments had been realized. It was argued. They succeeded in convincing the commission that the Cherry-st structure was not the proper one but were so much disappointed as the Cherry-st proponents when that body announced on July 7 that the project would be impossible for several years as funds available for such purposes were not adequate. To a few members on the council conceived the idea that if relief of traffic congestion was wanted, the cheapest way to accomplish it was to build a new bridge at Lawest. Cherry-st advocates refused to entertain the suggestion unless it were coupled with that of building a bridge also at the west end.

ORDER PLANS
Money was the only stumbling block to the success of the undertaking. The council feared a referendum to bond the city would be defeated. A suggestion was offered that the $100,000 in the bridge fund with its accumulating interest and a bridge tax to be levied in the next two years would provide enough revenue to start the program at once. A suggestion of other improvements in that period would leave the added tax scarcely noticeable, it was said. Encouraged by a tentative estimate by Harrington, Howard and Ash, bridge engineers, at $150,000 for Cherry-st bridge and $43,000 for Lawest bridge, the council ordered plans drawn.

At the presentation of plans Jan. 1, 1923, the council was informed that the Cherry-st structure would cost about $200,000 and the Lawest bridge about $63,000. This unnerved the council to some extent, but it proceeded to advertise for bids.

A crisis arose in the council when it opened the bids, the lowest of which was $207,767 on the larger project and $58,329 on the smaller one. It became noised abroad that three of the members had bolted the Cherry-st faction and joined the irreconcilables. Aldermen L. O. Hansen, Jerry Callahan, William Murphy and Walter Schmitt had opposed the bridge from the start. On Feb. 19, 1923, the council after a stormy meeting in committee of the whole, upset the whole program, when Alderman H. R. Beske and John F. Lappen op-

Lowest bridge. The bids were about $3,600 higher than the first. Further obstacles were encountered, however, when the council after several unsuccessful attempts failed to obtain a full meeting. At that time council members were still afraid of each other's intentions. A threat of Wausau Iron Works to withdraw its bid prompted the council to call a special meeting April 25, 1923, and that night it accepted the Wausau bid by a vote of 3 to 2 and the Meyer bid unanimously.

Within a few days the contracts were executed, and the following month saw excavation started for the abutments of both bridges. The Cherry-st bridge cost the city in excess of $220,000. A saving of more than $10,000 was realized through a mistake in the preliminary survey on which the plans were based but this amount was offset by the cost of a specially constructed approach.

Progress of the bridge was delayed considerably. Instead of being completed by July 1924, this was not realized until the following December.

A. W. Priest, one of the principal supporters of the bridge project, was the first to drive a car over the new bridge. This was on Nov. 5, 1924. Planks had been laid across for that

An Extra Gasoline Tax of from 10 to 20 Cents Per Gallon

Your gasoline bills run into real money.

But have you ever stopped to figure how much of this is in the form of an incredibly high gasoline tax?

Let's see what happens when you leave the Concrete Highway and take to a gravel or a dirt road.

Conclusive tests have proved that a gallon of gasoline will carry you only two thirds as far on a gravel road as on a Concrete Road. On a dirt road a gallon of gasoline will carry you only half as far as on Concrete.

With gasoline at twenty cents a gallon, you would thus pay a gasoline tax of 10 cents per gallon on the gravel road and 20 cents a gallon on the dirt road.

These are figures you can't get away from. You can prove them yourself.

And remember that every time you travel on either a dirt or a gravel road you also increase wear and tear on tires and run up your general repair bills.

Why continue to pay these high taxes and get nothing in return but the discomfort and inconvenience of unpaved roads and streets?

Let your local officials know you want an adequate system of Concrete Roads and Streets. They are just as willing to build them as you are anxious to get them.

But they must have your support.

NOT MANY WOMEN SNORE BUT THEY OUTSNORE MALES

Negro Pullman Berth Tender of 54 Years Experience
Explains Difference

New York — Women snore louder than men.

However, more men than women are given to snoring.

But when a slumbering woman tunes up her baritone notes, they reach a pitch that echoes above the rumble of a railroad train.

At least so remarks William Jenkins, 58, who wears more service stripes on his Pullman uniform than an approved zoo zebra and who has made a detailed study of snores since he became a berth tender 54 years ago.

"Yes, sir," says Williams, gesturing with his best thank-you-for-the-bug tip smile. "I know all about snores. Many a night they snore like a saw mill and keep me awake in my own berth. And that's loud."

Jenkins, who has portered for the Vanderbilts, Goulds, all the Pullman celebrities—even Peggy Joyce — has been on the run between New York and Atlantic City for 24 years. But he would not name his favorite snorer.

"More people don't snore than do," explains Williams.

The portly men and buxom women produce the saxophone snores while the lean and slender types snore the rasping, whistling noises—as true as a $3 cornet.

Heavier types are more likely to participate in the disturbing all-night melody than thinner ones, says Jenkins, who adds that fat people "snore sitting up."

With ten five-year service stripes on his left arm, Jenkins is more than a snore expert—he is a good porter. When George Pullman was president of the company that provides hotels on wheels, he remarked that "Jenkins must have a lifetime position with this company. He is never to be retired or pensioned."

Jenkins, who was born in slavery in Virginia, has been Pullman's Pullman since he was 14. He is married and has a daughter in college.

"What do you do when people complain of others' snoring?" he was asked.

"Just wake 'em up and give 'em a fresh start in the hope they will turn over," he replied. "You know we porters can't hold our hand over a snorer's face."

STEFANSSON IN FRONTIER ROLE

Famed Explorer of Polar Seas
Is Now Penetrating Wilds of Australia

New York—Vilhjalmur Stefansson has turned evangel of the wastelands. He would send the world's derelict acres down the reclamation trail to fertility. Where the street evangelist would save souls, he would save soils. And on such a mission he now has embarked.

It was with considerable surprise that the scientific world learned that the famed explorer of Polar seas would penetrate the Australian wilds about which men know little—as yet.

Why?

"Few Americans stop to consider that only 100 years ago, or thereabout, our prairies were considered worthless," said Stefansson, explaining his new venture. "The early settlers headed westward and grew along the rivers. Settlement grew along the rivers. In 1818 there came a settler who decided to find out: who set out to clear 10 acres. And the epic of the American prairie is now a great tradition. With the trial a success there came a great rush of settlers."

"I know this story of America, and I, with members of my party, may begin the story over again for Australia, where the wastelands are shunned."

The Arctic—one day may will learn to live there properly and another frontier will be waiting, he believes. Stefansson's interest in Australia was awakened during the World War when George Wilkins, a photographer who had accompanied the great explorer, wrote of the desolate hinterland.

ARAB MONARCH CUTS HIS PAY TO HELP TREASURY

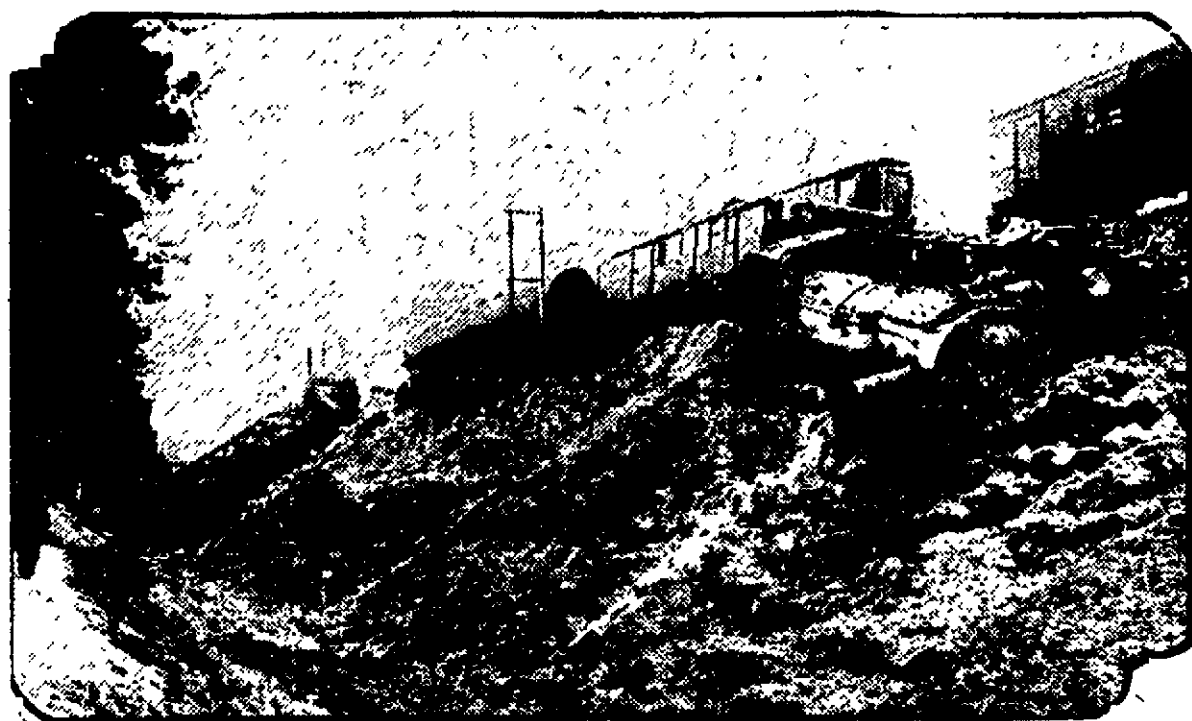

By Associated Press
Bagdad—King Faisal of Iraq is trying to teach his subjects to practice self-denial, and in order to cut state expenses, has offered to forego half the monthly allowance to which he is entitled under the civil list. He has taken this step on learning the true condition of the Iraq treasury, which suffers from a serious deficit.

One Arabic newspaper, while thanking Faisal for this acknowledgment of the country's financial difficulties, says that leading officials might copy the king's excellent example. While such a course is hardly probable, there can be no doubt that further cuts will have to be made in the expenditure of the government on salaries and allowances.

Last year was the healthiest ever known in the United States and Canada, according to public health records.

CHIC FLAPPERS OF GREENLAND CRAVE COLORS

Girl Natives Wear Beaded
Necklaces Weighing as Heavy as Six Pounds

Wiscasset, Me.—Heavy beaded necklaces, forming a yoke six inches deep and weighing as much as six pounds are being worn by the well-dressed flapper of Greenland today.

Dr. Donald B. MacMillan, arctic explorer, returns to his home port here with that message.

"You may talk about your chic flappers of Paris and New York," the arctic veteran says, "but none of them has the style nor the imagination for colors that is exhibited in the dress of girls in southern Greenland towns."

Dr. MacMillan brought home with him several of the Greenland "flapper" costumes.

The yoke of beads, which has already created quite a stir in designers' circles, is as colorful as the most riotous flower garden," Dr. MacMillan explains.

"But the clashing colors do not clash, it seems," he continues, "perhaps because of the artistic effect the Greenland flapper has in her background—that of solid white snow."

"The Greenland blouse is sealskin or bearskin and is worn in any color desirable—for American dye makers have distributed their product well through the Greenland regions."

"The blouse is, in effect, a tunic, for it fits over the flappers' trim trousers. The trousers are of hide and they, too, may be seen in any color. And then, reaching to the Greenland lassies' capable knees, high sealskin boots are being worn. These are bleached white."

"The whole effect," Dr. MacMillan says, "is one of a flower garden, these Greenland girls in their colorful outfits. You can travel all over Greenland and you'll find not two costumes alike."

"Each girl makes her own clothes so each exhibits a bit of originality."

The crew of the Bowdoin, the explorer's arctic schooner, is somewhat silent about these Greenland girls, but Dr. MacMillan laughs and admits:

"If we were behind time in coming home you might suspect that we lingered in southern Greenland ports."

By means of a sensitive microphone and headphones, a South American scientist claims to have heard the gnawing of worms inside apples.

In Arabic the word "sheik" literally means "an old man."

Fifty per cent more precious stones are sold in this country than in all the rest of the world combined.

A pine tree recently cut down in Crater Lake National park was estimated to be 600 years old.

OLD SALT HEAD OF 1-MAN SHIP BUILDING YARD

Sailor of Many an Unfortunate
Cruise Makes Models of Lost Vessels

Sailors' Snug Harbor, N. Y.—He is known as "the maker of lost ships."

Here where 800 old men of the sea have come to an hour awaiting the fast ebb tide, Captain Alfred McNeill, cheating "Davy Jones" of ancient victories by seeking to immortalize brave craft that went to romantic death.

By so doing he has built up a one-man industry that brings him orders from the four corners of the globe. For most sailor folk have more than a little sentiment and there is some one ship that was their pride and love.

"Ships, like men, have a short span of life before the seas swallow them or the rocks break them. Such ships are like lost children to their masters."

Thus philosophizes the old Scotch skipper whose aged but adept fingers piece together replicas of brigantines, barkentines, schooners—all the sailing ship types known to the seven seas.

For these he gets $150 and up. "It started when I made models of ships on which I once had sailed, but which had been lost," explains Captain McNeill, who for more than 45 years followed the sea. He took out ships for nearly every flim on the Pacific Coast many years back, running to Hawaii and the South Seas.

"Some of the best boats I ever sailed went ashore or on the reefs," he says sadly.

So in the idle hours at the old sailors' home Captain McNeill dreamed of the ships of his youth and soon with wood and string he was fashioning them again. Not a detail had escaped his memory.

The finished products were hailed as masterpieces by seafarers across the country. Then he began to pattern the lost ships of other skippers until now his unique industry is producing

NEWSPAPER MAKES SPORT OF BRAZILIAN ORATORY

Rio De Janeiro—A local newspaper has published some sarcastic comments on public speaking in Brazil, contrasting the lucidity and directness of certain public speakers of North America to the wandering vagueness under similar conditions of well-known Brazilians.

The writer says that in Brazil the public orator, as a rule, has no idea of time or progress. In order to tell a simple fact he piles up adjectives, brings rows of verbs into line, creates confusion by abusing the use of de, tall, metaphors and imagery. And this not being enough, he makes his voice quaver in order that the phrase and the speech be lengthened.

FIND MANUSCRIPT OF BEETHOVEN WED SONG

Leipzig—The original manuscript of a Beethoven wedding song was recently found attached to another manuscript in the possession of the firm of Breitkopf & Haertel, Beethoven's musical publishers.

The song was composed on the occasion of the marriage, Feb. 6, 1819, of the daughter of Gnammasio del Rio, principal of the boarding school attended by Beethoven's nephew Carl.

All traces of the song had been lost until an employee of Breitkopf & Haertel searching for Beethoven's piano concertos written in the master's hand. The song was fastened to one of them by a clip.

SIX BLUE TRACKMEN TAKE PART IN MIDWEST MEET

Lawrence College Net Squad Wallops Milton All-Star Tennis Team

Blues Take 5 of 6 Matches from Team That Outplayed Marquette State Champs

Playing snappy tennis from start to finish the Lawrence college net team wrecked the hopes of the crack Milton crew Tuesday afternoon on the Lawrence courts, taking 5 out of 6 matches to win. The Milton squad had arrived in Appleton fresh from a 3 to 3 tie with the state champion Marquette squad, one of the strongest teams in the midwest, on Monday.

Heideman was the only Lawrence man to lose a match. He lost to DeLand, star of the downstate crew, 6-1, 6-4. Winners were, Singles—LaBorde beat Capt. Burdick, 6-3, 6-3; Nesbitt triumphed, 6-4, 6-4; Anderson took the measure of Glover, 6-3, 6-4. Doubles—Heideman and LaBorde beat Burdick and DeLand, 6-3, 6-1 and Nesbitt and Anderson won from Pierce and Glover, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4.

Saturday afternoon Wheaton college of Wheaton, Ill., will invade the city for a match with the Mundelein crew in what should be the season's best play here. Wheaton was runner-up in the Little Nineteen conference of Illinois in tennis this year and brings to Appleton two of the best men in midwest college circles. They are out for revenge for the defeat handed them by the Blue eagles last winter. The public is invited to the match.

P-C AND FOOTFITTERS MEET FOR FIRST HONORS

A battle for first place in the Appleton Twilight League is scheduled for Wednesday evening when the fast-traveling Post-Crescent crew, 1924 loop champs, will meet the undefeated Footfitters at 5:15 at Jones park, according to a change in schedule. The Appleton Chair Co. and Meyer Press Crew were scheduled to meet but the dates were changed to accommodate one of the teams.

The Footfitters showed the most strength of any league team, beating the strong Bankers, 14 to 0 in their only game of the year. The Post-Crescent beat the Chair Co. and the Bankers, the latter team by a much smaller score than that taken by the Footfitters. However, the Post-Crescent squad has a gang of vets, especially in the infield and the best battle of the early part of the season is expected.

"CORNER" BOYS CARRY RIVALRY TO DIAMOND

Getting revenge for the many defeats suffered on the basketball floor last winter, Five Corners baseball squad downed their old rivals from Twelve Corners, 30 to 15 on the Twelve Corner "pasture." The boys from Twelve Corners took four cage games in a row and started the spring season by winning the first ball game played at their "home town." The losers are endeavoring to find their trouble after a careful inspection and are vowing that never again will the "Fivers" beat them at anything. With a few sluggers and a new pitcher added to their lineup, they will try to break the tie in the near future.

TERRIS, TAYLOR STEP UP IN CHALLENGE BOUT

New York—A New York light-weight and a Terre Haute bantam, were one step higher in the challenge ranking of their divisions Wednesday as the result of triumphs Tuesday night in ten round bouts at the Queensboro stadium.

Sid Terris of New York scored decisively over Lou Paluso of Salt Lake City. After both had stepped so cautiously for nine rounds that the spectators boomed, Terris opened up a slashing attack in the closing three minutes which almost battered Paluso through the ropes.

Bud Taylor of Terre Haute swept through the defense of the former bantam champion, Abe Goldstein, with powerful body swings and swings to the head. Twice in the early rounds Taylor staggered Goldstein. Both fights went the limit and were won by decisions.

MILWAUKEE BOY SOLD TO CUBS FOR $35,000

Milwaukee — "Mandy" Brooks, a Milwaukee boy, who has been playing center field for the Columbus A. club, has been sold to the Chicago Cubs of the National league, according to a report received here Tuesday. The sale price was $35,000. It is understood that the Columbus team will also receive two members of Bill Killefer's Bruins in the deal.

LARK LOOP TITLE GAME ON TAP FOR THURSDAY

When the Lions and Legion teams, leaders of the Lark Softball League clash Thursday night a battle for early-season supremacy is on. The Legion beat the Lions in the first game of the season but were given the lead game they have had since the year. The Soldiers have no defeats on their record and the Lions have only the Legion defeat, and must win to keep in the race for the present time.

RECORD DRIVER

JIMMY GULLANE

Jimmy Gullane, Colorado golfer, stepped into the spotlight recently when he drove a golf ball 470 yards for what is said to be a new world record for distance. It's quite a feat at that, and if you don't think so, try it some day when you're out on the old links.

EHRHARDT HURLING NICELY FOR DODGERS

Brooklyn—The Dodgers have thus far been getting a pretty nifty brand of pitching from Rube Ehrhardt, one of its youngsters.

Ehrhardt has been hurling exceptional ball and his presence on the Robinson roster has stood the club in good stead with the two aces, Vance and Grimes, having a rather tough time getting started.

Ehrhardt, judging from performance to date, looks like a corner. And seems certain to hang up a good percentage in the pitching columns this season.

With Vance and Grimes getting back into the 1924 stride, the Dodgers should be fairly well fixed in a hurling way, providing, of course, that young Ehrhardt maintains the pace he has commenced.

Cincinnati—It was learned that Charles (Phil) Rosenberg and his manager Harry Segal, have been indefinitely suspended by the Michigan boxing commission for alleged violation of contract.

Far West Schools Menace Eastern Track Supremacy

BY ART CARLSON

For three straight seasons a far western menace—California—ramped out with eastern intercollegiate track and field honors.

The Golden Bears from the Pacific slope on each occasion presented such an array of stars that highly touted eastern teams simply dropped by the wayside.

That was in 1921-22-23.

Last year another menace from the far west in the form of Stanford invaded the Atlantic sector bent on taking up the pace where California left off.

Stanford did well. It counted 24½ points. But it could only finish third. Stanford ran amuck a great Yale team. And a Penn aggregation that was just a step behind the Blue.

California was content with 18 marks, a tie for eighth, so keen was the competition.

Across the athletic horizon there looms another western menace again this year. No, it isn't California. Nor is it Stanford.

But Southern California.

The Trojans have their optics on the championship which will be contested at Philadelphia May 29 and 30. It's a great outfit that Dean Cromwell, famous coach, has this year too. It's one of the best over a lengthy loop.

For instance, there is Leighton Dye, hurler extraordinary. Dye came in third over the high sticks a year back. He should do considerably better this time out.

Also, there is Bud Houser, discus and shot-putting star. Houser scored seven points in last season's tangle with Hartman of Stanford not counting. With Hartman of Stanford not counting, Houser looks good for a first

LAWRENCE STARS EXPECTED TO WIN PLACES IN EVENTS

McConnell, Rehbein, Don Hyde, Stair, Locklin, Sorenson Go to St. Paul

Six members of the 1925 Lawrence college track team, accompanied by Fred Tresize, athletic manager, will leave Thursday for St. Paul where they will participate in the 1925 midwest conference track and field meet conducted by Hamline university, Friday. Coach A. C. Denny will leave earlier to attend a meeting of athletic directors of the conference to be held at Hamline university.

The boys making the trip are McConnell, Stair, Don Hyde, Sorenson, R. Locklin and Capt. Rehbein. Stair will run the 100-yard dash; McConnell will enter the high and broad jumps; Don Hyde, the 440-yard dash and 220-yard low hurdles; Sorenson, the two mile run; Locklin, the mile run; Rehbein, the half mile run. McConnell has been the star of the Blue team in the jumps for two years and tied the state high jump record at Ripon Saturday. Stair, mainstay of the dash squad, tied the 100-yard dash record Saturday, making it in 10 seconds flat. Don Hyde, frosh star, is a good man in the dashes and hurdles. Locklin copped the mile at the state meet Saturday and Sorenson, frosh finish, has not been beaten in the two mile all season. He beat Eggbrecht, former Milwaukee high school crack, in a speedy finish at Ripon Saturday and is the most likely to come through of the six. Capt. Rehbein, with three years of real competition behind him is a hard man to beat in his event.

With Midwest conference official predicting the strongest meet since the conference was organized and the fastest competition in years, Coach Denny realized the utility of taking a full team and only the best men in each event were chosen. Mr. Denny does not expect to take a team victory but looks to place a man in each event against the extra-fast competition. Four places count in the point-column. Knox, Coe, Cornell and Carelton with the class of the western colleges are picked to be in the final fight.

On Thursday evening the athletic directors of the various conference schools will choose football officials for 1925 and arrange basketball schedules for 1926 at a big meeting. Arrangement of lanes and similar work for Friday's track meet also will be taken care of. Mr. Denny will attend the meeting.

NURMI LOSES FINAL RACE TO HELFFRICH

New York—Paavo Nurmi sails Thursday for his homeland and Ted Meredith's nine year old record for the half mile distance remains untarnished.

Running his farewell race at the Yankee stadium Wednesday night the fleet-footed Finn put up a desperate struggle, but lost by 10-yards to Alan Helffrich, Penn. State runner. John Barnes, New York, was third. The time was 1:56 4-5. Meredith's time was 1:52 1-5.

Albin Stenroos was victorious in his first-race on American soil. The Olympic marathon champion, 38, and the father of two children shattered the American mark of ten miles, 14:22 yards, set by Charlie Pores of the Milwaukee A. A. and defeated ten Americans in a running test of one hour. Stenroos covered 11 miles, 153 yards.

Giants' Winning Streak Stopped By Lowly Braves

New York — After twelve victories and three defeats in the recent series with western teams the Giants have been humbled by a lowly eastern neighbor.

The National league leaders lost to the cellar occupants at Boston Tuesday 5 to 2 and 5 to 4.

Brooklyn pennant hopes rose with the aid of Vance and Grimes who won a twin program at Philadelphia. Vance fanned ten batters while Grimes gave but six hits.

The Cardinals entertained thousands of children who were guests of President August Herman at Cincinnati by a 9 to 1 victory.

Ty Cobb smashed out the thousandth extra base hit of his stay of 20 years in the majors, breaking the record of 993 held by Honus Wagner. The Tigers beat Chicago 5 to 1. Babe Ruth viewed the Yankees from the dugout as they divided their double card with the Red Sox, losing the first game 3 to 2 and winning the second 6 to 1. Shocker yielded but four hits. Ruth worked out on the field before the games, but he is not expected in the lineup for at least a week.

The Senators pounded three Athletics pitchers and won 11 to 2. Vangilder and Danforth hurled the Browns to triumph in a double header with the Indians 8 to 4 and 5 to 4.

EXPECT LARGE CROWD AT NUSS-GREB FIGHT

Marquette, Mich.—Many "long distance" orders for seats were received the opening day of the advance sale by Edward A. Johnston, secretary-treasurer of the Marquette Athletic association, which is putting on the Harry Greb-Jimmy Nuss fight at the Palestra, Friday, June 5. Requests for four ringside seats were received from "Chicago" with a note asking that they "be good ones."

Reservations have been made from nearly every town north of the straits and it is believed by Mr. Johnston, in charge of the sale, that every seat will be sold out long before the day of the scrap.

Seats will be reserved for 4,000 fans and there will be room for 2,000 more. Reserved seats run from $3 to $6.

Besides the principal go between the middleweight champion of the world and Michigan's claimant to the world title, Andy Anderson, who has fought several men in the upper peninsula, will meet Curley Nelson, of Detroit, in the preliminary. Nelson has posted a forfeit that he can kavo the upper peninsula boy. The semi-windup will be between Bobby Swartz, flyweight champion of Canada, and Young Zulu Kid, former champion of the United States.

All bouts will be for 10 rounds and will be refereed by Emerson W. Dickerson, of Grand Rapids, sports writer on the Grand Rapids Herald and one of the country's best known fight officials.

BADGERS DRAW LAST LANE AT FOUGHKEEPSIE

New York—Pennsylvania and Cornell crews will have favored lanes in the Hudson river regatta at Foughkeepsie, N. Y., on June 22, according to positions drawn Monday under the supervision of the stewards committee of the Intercollegiate Rowing association.

The Quaker eight obtained the No. 1 lane on the west shore in both the varsity and junior varsity races, and No. 3 position in the freshman event.

Cornell secured the Highland canal-hug in the freshman contest, while its varsity and junior varsity crews will have the No. 2 position.

The complete lineup will be as follows:

Varsity race:
No. 1, Pennsylvania; No. 2, Cornell; No. 3, Navy; No. 4, Columbia; No. 5, Washington; No. 6, Syracuse; No. 7, Wisconsin.

Junior varsity:
No. 1, Pennsylvania; No. 2, Cornell; No. 3, Washington; No. 4, Columbia; No. 5, Syracuse.

Freshman:
No. 1, Cornell; No. 2, Columbia; No. 3, Pennsylvania; No. 4, Syracuse; No. 5, Wisconsin.

Baseball Simplified
By Billy Evans

When an improper batsman hits safely and runners on the bases at the time advance as the result of the hit, what action is taken if the batsman out-of-order play is properly discovered?

Just one thing more is always necessary to remember in batting-out-of-order plays, aside from the fact that the proper batsman is the player called out when the mistake is properly discovered. It is this:

At no time can any runner or runners advance on any act of an improper batsman which is discovered by the team in the field and an appeal made to the umpire.

Let us assume that the bases are filled and two are out when an improper batsman doubles, clearing the bases.

The team in the field being aware of the error calls the attention of the umpire to the slip. He calls the proper batsman out, makes the third out and erases the three runs that had crossed the plate.

If there was one or no one out at the time, the runners who had scored would simply return to their original bases.

FAKE SPOTS ON EGGS TO GET BETTER SALE

Investigation revealed that the spotted eggs had been dipped in a solution of coffee to give them a brown tint and that in many instances, it left in

DEMPSEY READY TO BOX WINNER OF TOURNAMENT

Paris—Jack Dempsey announced that he will be ready to meet the survivor of the four-cornered competition between Weipert, Wills, Gibbons and Tunney.

The statement was made after Dempsey had taken a strenuous workout at the Athletic club at Paris.

He declared he was anxious to get back into the ring and feels that the winner of two big forthcoming bouts in America is worthy of a chance at the championship.

Dempsey's first contract in Europe was signed in Paris Tuesday, but for an engagement in Berlin. It is an agreement with a Berlin promoter that called for Dempsey to appear for a week at Luna park, Berlin, for $15,000 and a percentage of receipts over a certain amount.

WILLIAMS DOES WELL IN ITS DUAL MEETS

Indianapolis, Ind.—Leon Dura established a new record for the speed way for ten miles by making an average of 113.126 miles an hour.

"BARNYARD GOLF" TOURNAMENT SET FOR NEXT MONTH

City Champion in Gentle Art of Horseshoe Hurling to Be Picked on June 13

Men and boys, young and old, are expected to get out the old "golf clubs" and begin practice this week as the result of an announcement by the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. to the effect that Saturday, June 13 will see the crowning of new "barnyard golf" champion for Appleton. In other words the city horseshoe pitching tourney for 1925 will get under way on that day. If the entry list is too large to eliminate most of the contenders in one day, the meet will be run off on successive Saturdays until it is finished.

It is likely that the double elimination system will be used so that any entry will have to lose two games to go out of the running. All of last year's entries and several new pitchers will make the meet the largest held here, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. Several men will be picked as the result of the meet for inter-city contests with Kimberly, Neenah and Seymour, where teams are being organized. Jack Newland was city champ last year.

Lawrence college students are still exulting and we don't blame them. After a bad year in 1924, to pull out three successive state titles in major sports is some record and plenty of credit should go to Denny, Catlin, The size, Farley and other workers of the teams. Appleton should be proud of its college and give it the support it deserves.

Bridgeport, Conn.—Tiger Flowers of Atlanta defeated Lou Bogush in 12 rounds.

The liquid for an insufficient time, the eggs became spotted after being withdrawn. It often happens that eggs left in the coffee solution long enough for the browning process to be completed, take on a coffee flavor.

While in some parts of the United States white eggs bring the best prices, it is the brown eggs which for years have been sold in London at a premium. It is only of late that poultry dealers have taken to coloring the shells with the coffee solution.

ROSS HANGS UP MARK FOR MAKING ERRORS

New York — "Lefty" Ross, pitcher for the Boston Red Sox, is reported to have set a new error record for modern-day gunners when he turned in four miscues in a game against the Browns recently.

According to the books, the old mark was three, jointly held by several hurlers in the American League, the last one being Bob Shawkey, who chalked up a trio of boots in a game played June 25, 1921.

Ross committed his quartet over an eight inning stretch making two in one stanza.

With one paw the other day and get a runner at first without straightening his back—and the runner was a speedy boy. He can get them well to the right of him too and has a fine whip. Wally Pierce might do well to add him to his string as a sub infielder during his present second-base trouble.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Rumors have it that Appleton may yet see league ball this year if not big league stuff. One of the local semi-pro gangs is negotiating for a berth in the Tri-County Loop, which includes strong crews from Chilton, Plymouth, Kiel, Mayville and perhaps the Carvers of Oshkosh. Such a thing would be about right for this city as it sure ought to have some league ball set this year.

Lawrence college students are still exulting and we don't blame them. After a bad year in 1924, to pull out three successive state titles in major sports is some record and plenty of credit should go to Denny, Catlin, The size, Farley and other workers of the teams. Appleton should be proud of its college and give it the support it deserves.

With Sorenson and Locklin and Capt. Rehbein tearing off the distance in great style the Blues may cut quite a swath in these events at St. Paul. We look to Sorenson to be the surprise of the Midwest meet in the distances.

They have a kid on the Fox River Paper Co. crew that's nearly ready for real baseball. His name is Al Goshia and he plays the middle sack. He can pick 'em from the dirt and peg 'em to first from any angle and makes a nice cut at the apple. We saw him take a couple on the run

Ham Gottsacker, who was down south with Stormy Kromer, is back in this neck of the woods again. He twirled Sunday for Kewanee against the Green Bay K. C.'s winning his game 5 to 2. Gottsacker had a world of stuff on the ball and the Bay Catholics found it rather difficult to connect.

George Christoph will return as athletic director at Neenah high school for another year. The announcement was welcomed by the students as Christoph more than made good in his initial start as a coach. During the past season Neenah high's athletic stock has climbed several notches in state circles.

URUGUAY HELPS KEEP PRICE OF MEAT DOWN

Montevideo—Uruguay, although geographically the smallest South American republic, has always been something of a pioneer in the matter of up-to-date legislation. Having already established several state-owned enterprises, she is now about to build meat packing plant which will supply meat at cost price to co-operative associations of butchers, and also export it.

The scheme, as recently approved, involves an outlay of $50,000, to be raised by an issue of 6 1/2 per cent bonds. The enterprise will be "an autonomous dependency of the state" to be administered by a board of 12 directors, seven to be named by the government and the rest by the cattle raising interests.

WAR'S GREATEST HERO NOW EARNS $133 PER MONTH

Samuel Woodfill, Honored by Pershing, Makes Living as Skilled Carpenter

Fort Thomas, Ky.—Six years ago a little company of American soldiers pressed forward at Cuneil, France. The lieutenant in charge went ahead through a rain of machine gun bullets. He crawled to the side of the first "nest."

Three of the enemy started toward him. But the lieutenant was quicker on the trigger than they were. He got all three of them and grappled with a fourth.

In the struggle the fourth went down, too, and the Yank officer regained his revolver.

He pushed on to the next nest. Under fire, he killed several more of the Hunns and captured three.

He turned his prisoners over to his company, then started on for a third nest. Five more Germans were killed by many shots. Two other runners a few yards away opened fire upon him.

"Failing to kill them with his revolver," reads the official citation, "he seized a pick lying nearby and killed both of them."

Today that lieutenant—Samuel Woodfill—whose exploit on Oct. 12, 1918, caused General Pershing to proclaim him "outstanding hero of the World War," lives in a modest little cottage a mile from here.

He spends much of his time in his garden, caring for plants. A skilled carpenter, he finds joy in putting around his house or doing odd jobs for neighbors.

His income is $133 a month, his retirement pay from the army. On this he supports his wife, formerly Miss Lorena E. Wiltshire, a descendant of Daniel Boone, and her mother.

He could have more money by government appropriation if he asked it, but he has never done so. His buddies started a campaign for congressional action, but he refused to participate in the plans, and they fell through.

None of the glories of the returned hero are his. He has spurned offers to go on the stage. He accepts no invitations to social functions.

CONRAD'S PUPIL LACKS TOUCH OF FAMOUS WRITER

Harry Hervey's Saga Far Cry
from Finished Work of Old Master

BY ELEANOR WING

When a great writer dies, there are always plenty of young disciples who are trying to carry on his work. Even when he is living, there are often followers to emulate his style and ape his mannerisms. Conrad left a wealth of style idiosyncrasies and a splendor of words that are in vogue at the present time with young story tellers. The latest mimicry is "Ethan Quest," His Saga," by Harry Hervey, published by Cosmopolitan.

Harry Hervey has written a rather crude story of a little dreamer who seeks the mirage of a glamorous orient, and never quite achieves the romance he desires. He is wandering around in a nebulous atmosphere looking for the illusions that are decidedly puerile. "Ethan Quest" seeks "The ancient ruins of Angkor" and finds what is to be expected—filthy heat and flies!

The greatest fault in the author's style is his attempt to overdraw his pictures. It isn't quite consistent with beauty to call a moth "austere," and such an epithet is a decided strain on the imagination! Sometimes the mere suggestion of a beautiful scene carries with it a more vivid picture than the most elaborate description. Conrad's great strength was his power when to apply the harsh, color of Mr. Hervey, the pupil, has not yet learned the artist's priceless reticence.

The plot is another one dealing with the degeneration of soul, and it is too entirely concerned with character. "Ethan" is not big enough to warrant continuous introspection. The modern element of sex, treated ecstatically and brazenly, is also present, and the women are only abstract figures in the background. This is a characteristic which seems more and more obvious as the sex literature increases. The more the actual sex element is stressed, the less individuality and personality and mental status is granted to women characters.

The author has quite a varied and picturesque vocabulary, and when he has used all of his words a few more times, he will perhaps sink out with the red pencil, such as "Dawn," "emotional," "burning," "naked" and "hazy." The mere fact that he has picked out Conrad as his example and his master shows that he has a rare sense of the meaning in literature. Perhaps the subtle reticence, and shy confidence which make Conrad's pages shimmering mirrors of shadows and lights in human souls will be acquired by this younger, more facile apostle.

FINNISH WOMEN SUPPORT ARMY

Two Hundred Thousand Organized in Auxiliaries of Military Organizations

By Associated Press
Helsinki, Finland—Two hundred thousand Finnish women are organized into Lotta Sverdrup clubs, auxiliaries to the volunteer military organizations of men, and are in constant training to support the standing army in cases of emergency. The women are organized on a military basis and participate in the maneuvers of the volunteer forces so that they may be prepared to carry on all work for which women are qualified in time of war. During the drills the women wear coats, gray garments and sleep on straw, just as the men volunteers do, so as to accustom themselves to the hardships of military service.

The fighting between the red and white forces which followed the establishment of the Russian soviet government saw much of Finland involved in the bitterest sort of civil strife. Railway communications were severed for months and the entire population was involved in a conflict which taught all Finns many lessons in modern warfare.

The United States is the second gold producing country in the world, the Transvaal being first and Canada third.

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

THE MIDDLEWEST IN AMERICAN FICTION

I have called attention more than once to the fact that the "literary center" idea of developing a genuine literature in America is a snare and a delusion, that the belief once widely held among young writers that they must go to New York where they could be in a "literary atmosphere" is false and has destroyed more writers than it has made.

It is therefore in the nature of an adventure to come upon the same idea expressed more vigorously by H. L. Mencken in his book, "Prejudices, Fourth Series," published last November. Speaking of the future of fiction in America, Mencken says:

THEY SAW WOOD

"On the one hand there is a group which, revolving round the 'Bookman,' talks a great deal and accomplishes nothing. On the other hand there is a group which, revolving round the 'Dial' and the 'Little Review,' talks even more and does even less. But on the third hand, as it were, there is a group which says little and sees wood. There seems to be little in common between its members, no sign of a formal movement, with its blague and its bombast, but all of them have this in common: That they owe both their opportunity and their method to the revolution that followed 'Sister Carrie.' Most of them are from the middlewest, but they are distinct from the Chicago crowd, now degenerated to posturing and worse. They are philosophical, disillusioned, free from cant, and yet they have imagination. The raucous protests of the evangelists of American Idealism seem to have no more effect upon them than the advances of the Expressionists, Dadaists, and other such café-table prophets. Out of this dispersed and ill-defined group, I believe, something will come."

Now Mencken is often guilty of overemphasis. He can never content himself with merely saying that a man is a fool; he doesn't think it worthwhile unless he can call him a "blanket blank," a "triple blank fool." But in spite of this vice which flows from his exuberance, his enormous gusto of expression, he is frequently a very shrewd observer, and when due allowance has been made for his delight in shocking his readers there is usually found to be a very substantial kernel of hard truth in what he says.

LIVE FAR AWAY

His appraisal of the middlewestern fictionists is of extreme interest because we who live in the middlewest require the word of an outsider to make us believe it. It is natural to believe that the greatest writers live far away in some "literary center," just as it is natural to believe that distant pastures are greenest. Moreover, the scattered writers Mencken refers to lack the machinery for telling the world about themselves that the groups possess who live in the "literary centers" and whom Mencken dismisses perhaps too contemptuously as the "Brooklyn crowd" and the "Dial crowd." The members of such groups are always assiduously engaged in the business of keeping reputations inflated. One puts the other on the back in print and gets perted in turn, and the general public gets the notion that they are all geniuses. The New York crowd has done a lot of that and Chicago crowd has not been behindhand.

Aside from the fact that as often as not individual talent is killed in a young writer by the dominating leveling influence of a literary group, the scattered writers have a better chance to produce worthwhile stuff because they are constantly in first-hand touch with the material of their profession. They are forced to be in touch with it and they absorb their knowledge without knowing it.

It is interesting to have the word of an outsider for the fact, not that some of the most vital writers of the day were born in the middlewest—that has been said repeatedly—but that the isolated and scattered novelists of this section constitute a loosely defined group that has the dignity of a "school" and that is the hope of the future in American fiction.

With Gordon Powell coping five of the six boys athletic events and Dolores Hurst, two of the four girls athletic events, District No. 1, was an easy winner in the town of Osborn contests to determine the representatives to the county track and field meet for rural schools which will be held in Appleton May 29.
